

Court house notes

The county clerk's office has not done much business with dog licenses so far this year. Owners of dogs more than 6 months old are required to buy tags. The fee is $4 for either a male or female. Mrs. Sadie Parrish says that there is no deadline—the fee is the same all year and does not go up after March 1 as it did in years past.

So far, only 10 dogs have 1975 licenses. Last year 54 dogs were licensed.

The assessor's office reports that personal property taxes are coming in slowly. The office expects a last minute rush to develop just before the March 3 deadline after which penalty payments will be added to the tax.

Appraiser Charles Patching says he is getting a start on the work that will lead to reappraised land values for 1975-76.

The county treasurer is busy with monthly reports.

Upstairs the health department is keeping busy with immunization clinics in the county schools. The first session has been completed at Heppner Elementary School. Acting health nurse Pat Wright and Dr. Tibbles and volunteer nurses will visit Boardman and Irrigon next. The first round will be completed with visits at Heppner High and Lone's schools. In March and April second and third visits will be made to the six schools in the county.

Planning Director David Moon, has been on the job five months and has been a Heppner resident for four months. He has been developing awareness and understanding of various state agencies and their requirements. He is working with persons throughout the county and with the State Land Conservation and Development Commission, the Department of Commerce and the Department of Environmental Quality. He says the five townships in the county are being cooperative and that the rural areas are beginning to better understand what these agencies require.

For more than 3 months the department has been summarizing regulations and revising ordinances which will be aired at a public hearing on Feb. 24. If the revisions are approved by the people and adopted by the county court they will be implemented.

Moon points out that county ordinances may be more restrictive than state laws—but never can be less restrictive. He expects to be working on some subdivision matters and understandings based on State Senate Bill 487.

Among major concerns in the county are the best use of the land, transportation needs and development of community services such as solid waste disposal. The DEQ has approved the beginning of construction on the Dee Cox Canyon project and it will be begun later this spring. The planning office, along with the Solid Waste Advisory Committee, is working on the selection and approval of 2 additional sites.

Several road projects which would aid agricultural expansion are being worked on—one being the Patterson Ferry Road system. These road systems are justified after traffic volume studies are completed.

Planning means many hours of study and much working with land owners and developers and with many governmental agencies. David Moon and his secretary, Lois Allyn, are really caught up in lots of paper work.

County Planner David Moon finds Morrow County a familiar place. During his years at Hermiston High School he got to know quite a few young people here. He really became better acquainted in 1971 when he worked for the Heppner Lumber Company at the stud mill.

At Hermiston High, David participated in several sports but was most outstanding in baseball. As a second baseman he gained the "Most Valuable Player" award during his senior year, 1969. He lived in Hermiston 18 years while his father was the lab technician at Good Shepherd Hospital and then administrator of the Umatilla Hospital.

Moon gained his B.S. degree at Eastern Oregon State College with a major in environmental management. He met his wife Carol during college. The Moons have a 9-month-old daughter, Dena. Before he was employed here last fall, he worked with the Public Works Department of Cowlitz County, Wa., in environmental coordination.

Britt's school to open

Sid Britt, Echo, will conduct his 4th annual Bareback Riding School, March 27-30.

Last year there were two separate schools to instruct 31 boys in the fundamentals of bareback riding. On the final day of the 4-day schools a $100 belt buckle was awarded in two jackpot events. Bill Peila, Burns, won the buckle for one class last year and Jim Davis, Winlock, Wa., won the second school jackpot. Both are outstanding junior and high school rodeo competitors. Davis was elected National High School Rodeo Association president for 1975.

Britt has won more bareback championship titles in the Northwest Rodeo Association than any other cowboy.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA
Anniversary Celebration
FEB. 1-28

- This is the 65th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. The Scout motto "Be Prepared" signifies the essence of this worthy organization.
- Heppner and Morrow County are truly proud to salute the Boy Scouts of America, and particularly Troop 661. These Scouts and their leaders are making a great contribution to good citizenship.
- Worldwide in scope, Scouting reaches into most nations of the globe, carrying with it a strong bond of international friendship and understanding.
- Our newest Eagle Scout, Mark Piper, exemplifies the best in Scouting. The strong minded, eager, considerate and helpful members of Troop 661 are a credit to this community. Boy Scouts seldom, if ever, get their names in the police news!
