

Wine tasting party is an April treat

Morrow County's first wine tasting party is set for Saturday afternoon and evening, April 12, 2 to 8 p.m., in the Heppner Elks Club.

Seven varieties of Oregon wine, crackers and eight different cheeses will be offered each ticket holder. The $5 tickets need to be purchased in advance from a member of Heppner's Soroptimist International. Only a limited number of tickets will be available. Mail orders will be handled at P.O. Box 1040, Heppner.

Funds realized will go toward the organization's scholarship program. Scholarships offered include: academic, $200; vocational-technical, $100; two Girls State $50; two 4-H summer school, $30; citizenship essay awards, $28.75; support for a foreign exchange student, $50. Also in its youth budget the club includes a luncheon for senior girls and a contribution for library books which appeal to youth.

After and during the party Soroptimists will sell a selection of eight varieties of 1/2 pound blocks of Bandon, Or.

cheeses. Barbara Paulus is chairman for this event.

Joseph Coulombe, Aloha, Or., who will preside at the tasting, has been a teacher of winemaking for nine years, is a charter member of Oregon Wine Taster's Guild and is a member of both the Oregon Wine Grower's Association and the Wine Grower's Council of Oregon whose purposes are to promote grape growing and winemaking on a commercial basis in Oregon. He knows all of the Oregon winery owners and winemakers personally and has conducted many wine tasting parties.

Coulombe has taught winemaking and winetasting through Portland Community College, Chemeketa Community College, the YMCA and Oregon Museum of Science and Industry. This spring he will offer classes through Mt. Hood Community College.

He is known as "The Progressive Winemaker" and has operated his family-owned wine and winemaking supply business at Aloha since 1971; however, his family has been in winemaking for 14 years.

NOVA GAYLORD, Columbia Basin Electric Co-op employee, draws the name of Bud Springer as last week's Mystery Person. Springer correctly identified Eldon Padberg as the MP, had the correct number of clues, and won $27.50 for his effort.

Clubs hear about life in Greece

The Topic Club of Ione entertained the Bookworms of Heppner March 19 in the Valby area Ranch home of Martha Peterson. Monica Swanson, Ione, who lived in Greece as an IFYE in 1971, provided the program.

Lorraine Ladd, Topic Club president, introduced Mrs. Swanson who showed 100 slides taken during her 1973 stay in Grecian homes. She commented on family life and social customs she observed on the mainland and on Greek islands. Handcrafted articles, examples of weaving, embroidery, ceramics and metal work were displayed by the speaker and by Kathryn Lindstrom, a Topic Club member who has also visited Greece.

Seven members from each of the community literary groups attended this annual joint meeting. The Topic Club ladies had been entertained by the Bookworms last fall in Heppner. Attending were Bookworms Ruby Becket, Marian Brosnan, Helen Curran, Fay Ferguson, Pauline Hughes and Justine Weatherford and Topic Club members Frances Carlson, Lorraine Ladd, Kathryn Lindstrom, Jean Nelson, Martha Peterson, Helen Proudfoot, Frances Smouse, and the speaker.

Mrs. Bier is AAUW speaker

The next regular meeting of the Heppner Branch of the American Association of University Women will be Tuesday evening, April 1, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Linda Johnson in Heppner.

Pauline Bier will be the speaker for the evening. She will talk about her experiences growing up in Peru, as the daughter of a missionary family.

Election of officers will also be held. Hostesses for the evening are Jeanne Howell and Annette Hagey. The public is invited to attend.

Artists invited to show

Artists from Northeastern Oregon and Southeastern Washington are invited to exhibit paintings at the Pendleton Arts Festival, scheduled for May 24 at the Pendleton Armory.

The festival, co-sponsored by the Pendleton Arts Council, the American Association of University Women and the City Recreation Department, is an effort to encourage people to paint, to stimulate the public's interest in painting, to offer a place for artists to display their work, and to provide an opportunity for artists to view the work of other painters.

New this year, will be a cash award for the best of show. This award will be chosen by a panel of judges.

Application for entry blanks may be made by writing to the Pendleton Arts Council, P.O. Box 573, Pendleton.

DEAR TAURUS:

Yes to both parts of your question. Handwriting is the evidence of your thoughts. All of these thoughts—all that you think and then say or do—have their start in your emotions. Moods are certainly an expression of your emotions, and handwriting reveals your emotions and your traits of character to give a complete picture of your whole personality.

The total personality, then, is the dominant factor in understanding why you feel, think, act and write in your own individual way.

Your handwriting, or printing, indicates that you react according to whatever mood is uppermost. That mood changes on occasion, and what pleases you today may displease you tomorrow.

The evidence is that you know when and how to use your different moods and have learned to control and use these moods wisely.

You give your attention to details, and this points to your having a good memory. Should a wanted detail slip out of your memory momentarily, you can become irritated until you retrieve it.

Artistic expressions interest you. This interest is apparent in your appreciation of color and form. To interpret your own feelings in art, or to interpret those of another, appears to be one of your talents.

Yours,
MARGARET

CowBelles elect, plan activities

Morrow County CowBelles have chosen April 16 for their annual spring luncheon and membership drive, according to Gail Hughes, president, Morrow County CowBelles.

At a recent meeting the officers and chairmen for CowBelles activities were announced by Mrs. Hughes, as well as plans for a Beef-A-Rama to be held at A.C. Houghton School, Irrigon, April 30.

Officers and committee chairmen are: Claudia Hughes, vice-president; Jean Bennett, secretary-treasurer; Claudia Hughes, beef certificates; Clista Vernard; beef education; Jeanne Howell; beef for Father's Day; Mildred Eubanks; beef promotion and publicity; Birdine Tullis; cookbooks and special products; Beth Bryant; Father of the Year; Sherri Mahoney membership; Lorraine Brosnan; scrapbook; Virginia Grieb; 4-H; Virginia Grieb.

In addition to other activities, CowBelles will sponsor new awards for 4-H events at the county fair, with special prizes for the best junior and intermediate salad and sandwiches prepared using beef products, and special awards for favorite foods contests utilizing beef. Special awards are also provided by local CowBelles for 4-H members in leathercraft project.

CowBelles welcome local women to membership in the organization, both those actively participating in producing beef and those interested in promotion of the beef industry. Information on membership may be obtained from any of the above-mentioned CowBelles.

CowBelles join in Agriculture Day

Agriculture Day in Oregon, March 24, has been designated by proclamation by Gov. Robert Straub.

In keeping with the special day saluting agriculture, Morrow County CowBelles have a display in the window at Murray Drug, Heppner, saluting livestock growers of the county. The western display was placed there by CowBelles Ruth Nutting and Cork Sorene.

"Currently beef is the anti-inflation food of 1975," according to Mrs. Donald Bradshaw, president of the Oregon CowBelles. "American agriculture deserves a pat on the back. As of February, consumers were spending about 18 cents out of every take-home dollar on food. Twenty years ago it was 26 cents. Because of our farmers' and ranchers' efficiency our country can produce enough food for all its people and still ship to needy people in other countries. This is something no other country has done."
