

Girls receive tips on modeling at fair

MR. AND MRS. MIKE SWECK

Two former Morrow 4-H Style Revue winners presented the basics of being a model for the benefit of younger members preparing to participate in county fair.

Cheri Carlson and Kay Bergstrom, both home ec majors at OSU put the girls through the paces and really had them interested about the prospects of modeling garments they have made in their projects this year. Kay, Oregon winner of the "Sew With Wool Contest" last year, shared expertise and new modeling tips she had learned on her trip to Texas in the wool competition.

A special presentation by Cheri Smith of the Pendleton Sew and Sew on decorative ideas for clothing and a quick look ahead to fall fashions and fabrics provided a bonus for those attending. Cheri showed garments and home furnishings personalized with trims, applique, patchwork, beads, paint, embroidery and many other decorative ideas.

A quick revue of what to expect at fair, time schedules, grooming tips and words of encouragement to younger members was provided by Francine Evans, Style Revue chairman.

Couple repeat vows in outdoor service

WARM SPRINGS—An outdoor wedding with the Deschutes River in the background marked the July 19 marriage of Nancy Jo Hoecker and Mike Sweck, now residents of Heppner.

The couple repeated vows at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dale Hoecker, Warm Springs. Rev. Calvin Chinn of the Warm Springs United Presbyterian Church performed the late morning ceremony.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ned Sweck, Heppner.

Special guests at the ceremony, which was followed by a patio chicken barbecue, included the bride's grandmother, Thruza Russell, Corvallis.

The newlyweds are both graduates of Oregon State University. Sweck studied science and his wife is a registered pharmacist.

Lions will begin regular meetings

The Heppner Lions will begin regular meetings on Aug. 5 at 6:45 a.m. at the Wagon Wheel Cafe.

It is necessary to begin meetings after a short recess because of activities planned at the Morrow County Fair reported President Dick Sargent.

The main project at the fair is the sponsorship of the carnival as well as the popcorn and cotton candy concessions. The carnival will run each day of the fair and during the rodeo weekend.

Lion members are now selling tickets at a great savings for carnival rides.

NAME OMITTED

The name of Shauna Bergstrom, lone, was omitted from the list of honor students at Oregon State University last week. She had a GPA of 3.67 for the past year.

Nese Kizilkoy, Ankara, Turkey, International 4-H Youth Exchangee visiting in Morrow County showed traditional Turkish fashions, beads, and other handwork of her country and told about the 4-K program in her country.

The special "get ready for fair" program drew an audience of approximately 75 members, leaders and parents.

BMCC will build new facilities

Another attempt to build an all-weather track and tennis courts on the Blue Mountain Community College campus will be made this summer, according to Ron Daniels, president.

The college board of education told its architects July 15 to draw plans and call for bids for the track and tennis courts. Bid opening was set for 2 p.m. Aug. 13.

The outdoor facilities were originally to be constructed last summer, but the board rejected all bids because they were too high.

Daniels told the board the college has received new construction funds from the state, adding that enough money is available for the full project if good bids are received.

Plans call for a quarter-mile all-weather track with eight lanes and for six tennis courts.

The board also named Harmon Springer, Hermiston, chairman for the coming year, and Ken Dauble, Weston, vice-chairman. Out-going board Chairman Joe Green, Pendleton, administered the oath to John Hansell, Hermiston. Hansell was elected to the board last May.

Appointment of a new member to replace Dorothy Krebs, lone, was postponed until the August meeting. The board will interview interested persons at a special meeting Aug. 13. Mrs. Krebs resigned last month on advice of her doctor.

Three Morrow County residents have asked to be considered for the appointment: Thomas Stewart, Heppner, Bob Rietmann, lone, and Irvin Rauch, Lexington.

Figures show library growth

By Justine Weatherford

The Heppner Public Library has grown in several ways this past fiscal year, July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975. During the same time last year total circulation was 4,737 books. This year it rose to 4,928 books—adult readers checking out 3,838 books and juvenile readers taking out 1,545.

The busiest months last year were August, 588 books, and September, 590. This year July saw 688 books checked out and June 1975 617 books. The library has also assisted readers in obtaining three times as many books from the State Library at Salem this year, more than 60 books.

New users cards were filed for 241 persons, adults and children, in the last 12 months.

Along with good growth there has been a distressing increase in the number of unreturned books. Although telephone calls and written notices are used, quite a few persons have for varying reasons disregarded their obligation to return the library's books.

The summer Monday morning Children's Story Hours attracted fine groups last year, but are bringing in even more children this year as the Heppner Child Care Center brings its four to eight year olds each week.

Morrow County authors, Sam McMillan, Clifford Williams and Bill Weatherford were honored at autograph-coffee hours during this year.

At the end of the 1973-74 year the library had cataloged 3,525 books. This year 725 books were cataloged, bringing the total to 10,250. An additional 2,000 books, mainly paperbacks, are circulated that have not been cataloged. Many books were contributed these last two years by members of the community. This year there was an increase in the number of memorial gifts. Quite a few books were given to the library by the Blue Mountain Community College library and some were given by the Umatilla County Library.

Over 150 new books for adults and children, including important reference works, were purchased with City of Heppner funds.

Totaled by quarters, the most reading, 1472 books, was done in the last three months of this year, April, May and June 1975. The next largest quarter was July, August and September of 1974 when 1347 books went out. A reading slump hit during October, November and December of 1974 when only 836 books went out. However, in January, February and March reading picked up again and 1273 books went out.

The average monthly circulation for local public library books in 1974-75 was 411 books or about 103 books each week of 15 hours, making the hourly checkout average very close to 7 books.

Circulation takes only a small part of the librarian's and volunteer helpers time. Checking in, shelving, cataloging, purchasing, keeping records, writing letters and reports, and many other tasks take a larger percentage of the working time.

June Field, Leslie Patching, Adelle LaTrace and several others have given many hours of volunteer effort to the library during the last two years. Without their help and the cooperation and contributions of local organizations such as the Soroptimists, A.A.U.W., the Bookworms, The Odd Fellows, the Lions Club and others, the library could not have successful growth.

Blanche Brown was Heppner's librarian for 17 years until the end of October 1973 when she retired. Justine Weatherford has been librarian the last 20 months.

The City of Heppner budgets for most of the library's expense, including the three-eighths time salary of the librarian. Morrow County contributes to the building maintenance and operation.
