

Party Line

By Dorothy Zita

There are three seasons of the year, that mother nature takes her paint brush and changes the drab end of season's colors. The bright oranges, golds, reds and dark browns are now in full color. A drive up Willow Creek shows fall in all its splendor. The first snowfall and the lushness of green colors in the spring always leaves me in awe of mother nature too.

Two workshops, one on folklore of our area, and the other in basic skiing, are also possibilities. Anyone interested in scheduling other classes should contact Anne Doherty, 676-5277.

INCOME TAX REFUNDS UP

The Oregon Department of Revenue has paid more than $138 million in refunds to individual taxpayers this year on withholding and property taxes paid in 1974. Revenue director John J. Lobdell says 865,230 taxpayers received an average of $150 each.

Lobdell says that the number of refunds increased from three per cent from $36,855 last year while the amount refunded increased six per cent from $130 million and the average refund increased two per cent from $156.

Average refund checks issued by the department during these two years have been 1/2 per cent higher than in previous years because of the Homeowner and Renter Property Tax Refund Program adopted by the legislature in 1973. Prior to the establishment of this program taxpayers received refunds only for withholding taxes when filing individual income tax returns.

Chat a success

Oregon State Sen. Ken Jernstedt and State Representative Jack Sumner were honored guests at a fireside chat Nov. 6, at the Episcopal Parish Hall. The event was hosted by the Heppner Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Jernstedt and Sumner briefly recapped the last session of the legislature and the remainder of the evening was spent in an informal question and answer session. Jernstedt, commented the most effective way for citizens to express their feelings regarding legislative topics is by writing to him. Sumner on the other hand, prefers to be contacted by telephone.

Both men agreed a letter or telegram stating simply to "vote NO on Bill No. ..." for example, does little good because the reason is not included.

Approximately 30 people attended the chat, including various members of local and county government.

Politics of 1970

By Josephine Richardson

I have been reading the histories of several centuries ago and how the politics were conducted then and comparing them with the present state of affairs. Back as far as 1900 and 1910 there were a few zealous women trying to make speeches in behalf of "women suffrage" and they were merely greeted with scorn. But times have changed. Everything is in the hands of women. Men has at least been put out in his proper place and kept there.

I well remember when a young friend of mine had just been elected as Speaker of the House of Representatives when she decided to get married. I being an old friend tried to persuade her to put it off but she paid no attention and carried out her desire.

Of course her husband was desirous of helping her as much as possible and she, poor infatuated thing was glad to see him display so much interest in her undertakings.

I myself have had four husbands divorcing all but one, and he has passed to a happier world, so I know more about them than she. But she knew it; all so I said no more about it.

One evening, Sen. Margaret Chappelle gave a reception for her friends and their husbands. I was thinking of leaving when I saw my friend's husband and talking to a weak minded woman who thought men were superior to women. I said nothing about it, lit my cigarette and thought a good deal as I strolled homeward. The next evening my suspicions were verified for there he was perched upon a box in the middle of the street preaching men's rights.

I called on my friend and proposed a walk. Of course we walked in the direction of the speech. When we arrived there, she was only amused at first but when she got the drift of his speech she was furious. She rushed to where he was, took him by the collar and waltzed him home. He now has no interest in politics and stays home with his children like any man should, while his wife attends the meetings.

I merely want this to be a warning to women whose husbands are interested in politics, for remember the day is past when men were the lords of creation.

Footnote: In clearing the accumulation from my desk, this writing came to light. It is reprinted here for you from the "Chinook" dated Dec. 1, 1910, Heppner, OR. As the title indicates it was written by Josephine Richardson, '11. Sound familiar? Josephine Richardson Mahoney will still be remembered for her column, "I Cover the Waterfront," she wrote for the Pendleton East Oregonian for many years. B.M.

Beef arm or blade cut chuck roasts are always an economical buy and nutritious addition to any meal. These cuts are in good supply now and retailers are often featuring both arm and blade cut chuck at very attractive prices. When they are on sale, buy several for the freezer and save one to try this Autumn Gold Beef pot-roast.

In addition to a hearty arm or blade cut chuck, golden sweet potatoes and orange juice play leading parts in this popular pot-roast production. Onions, oregano, and celery seed also contribute to the superlative flavor.

- 3 to 4 lb. beef arm pot-roast
- 1/2 c. flour
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper
- 2 T. cooking fat
- 1/2 c. water
- 1/2 tsp. celery seed
- 1/2 c. (two-third, 6 oz. can) orange juice concentrate, thawed
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 4 medium-sized sweet potatoes, pared and halved lengthwise
- 8 small onions, halved lengthwise
- 1 T. light brown sugar

Combine flour, salt and pepper; dredge pot-roast, reserving remaining flour mixture for gravy. Brown meat in cooking fat. Pour off drippings. Add 1/2 cup water, oregano and celery seed. Cover tightly and cook slowly 2 1/2 hours. Combine orange juice concentrate and 1 1/2 cups water and add 1 1/2 cups of the liquid to meat. Add potatoes and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat and vegetables to heated platter. Blend reserved flour with remaining orange juice and brown sugar. Gradually add to cooking liquid, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve with pot-roast. 6 to 8 servings. For blade roast reduce initial cooking time to 1 1/2 hours for a total of 2 1/2 hours cooking, or until meat is tender.
