

School Board meets

The advisability of pursuing a plan to secure additional land in the Boardman area for school buildings was a topic of discussion at the Dec. 15 meeting of the Morrow County School District Board.

Superintendent Matt Doherty reported an investigation into the availability of land had been conducted and that land which bordered the present school property is either not available or is too high priced.

Land in other locations is available, however, the board had originally favored placing all future buildings at a central location in order to gain the economy of shared facilities and staff. Projected population growth would require increases in school facilities in the Boardman-Irrigon area.

Dean Naffziger, of Heppner High School and Mike Wetherell, of Riverside High School reported that 23 students are currently employed in cooperative work studies programs in the county's three high schools. Cooperative work experience extends the classroom training to an actual job site where the students are employed for a few hours each day.

The Board accepted the resignation of Jim West from the Ione Advisory Committee and Burrell Cooley from the Budget Committee. Sandra Murray was appointed to replace West. Francine Evans of Irrigon was appointed as a replacement on the budget committee.

In other business, a letter of resignation from Miss Diane Black, Language Arts teacher at Ione High School, was read and accepted by the board.

The board discussed a request from the City of Boardman for a property easement to correct a traffic problem at the corner of Main and Columbia Avenue and for a curb along north Main Street. Administrators were instructed to pursue the matter in greater detail. No action was taken.

In final action, the Board granted a 1 year extension to the Superintendent's contract.
