Poppy Days

This Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, the members of the American Legion Auxiliary No. 87 will be asking people to wear the red memorial veterans poppies.

Disabled veterans make each poppy, for which they receive a small sum. This enables them to buy personal items not furnished by the hospital. Many save it for the day they can be discharged or send it to help their families. Making the poppies helps them to pass the long days, months or years they face.

The basic purpose of Poppy Day is to offer the American public an opportunity to honor the war dead and to assist the living.

Donations of any amount are accepted. All funds received are used to aid disabled veterans, their families and the families of deceased servicemen.

Two Reviews Given By Bookworms

Two books were reviewed at the final, school-year meeting of the Bookworms Tuesday, May 11. Mrs. Lucy Peterson was hostess for the evening's gathering.

Madge Thomson reviewed Corrie TenBoom's biographic book "The Hiding Place." The 83-year-old author recalls her family's experiences in helping Jewish escapees during World War II in Holland. She writes of suffering and love and of her own life after the difficult war years.

must have been born on a mairland, for there is heather in me." A few others are: "Making some bird or best go lame the rest of its life is a sore thing on one's conscience, at least nothing to boast of." "Toiling in the treadmills of life we hide from the lesson of nature. Civilized man chokes his soul as the heathen Chinese their feet." "In God's wilderness lies the hope of the world—the great fresh, unblighted, unredeemed wilderness. The galling harness of civilization drops off, and the wounds heal ere we are aware."

The Bookworms will begin their bi-monthly meetings again this fall. They plan to have their first get-together Tuesday evening, Sept. 14 in the home of Madge Thomson.

Nistad Elected to TOC Board

Allen R. Nistad of Kinzua Corporation has been elected to the executive committee by the board of directors of Timber Operators Council, Inc., which held its 16 annual membership meeting in Portland, May 5.

Nistad, who also is a director, has his operations in Heppner.

Karl F. Glos, executive vice president, told some 250 delegates that TOC has grown from 56 member companies in 16 years to 548. This is an increase of 34 above last year.

TOC has members in Oregon, Washington, California, Alaska and Nevada. From headquarters in Tigard, the Council directs fully staffed regional offices in Seattle, Eugene, Sacramento and Redding. TOC represents its members in labor relations, industry safety programs and contract negotiations, etc.

Delegates heard good news for the wood products industry from Dr. A. Gary Shilling, New York Wall Street economist, who was the principal speaker. He forecast 3.5 million housing units would be started in 1980 and predicted

1.6 million this year, up 40,000 over 1975. Two million are listed for 1977.

"More money available in the private sector and less government spending, with lower interest rates, are cause for the bullishness," he said.

Students Flood Market

Many students will flood the job market again this summer.

According to the Workmen's Compensation Board, employers who are expecting to hire workers for the summer should inform themselves of legal requirements for workers' compensation coverage. The odds are good, if they do not have coverage, that they will be responsible for the payment of thousands of dollars if a worker is injured on the job.

The Board advises employers to protect themselves from costly claims by calling an insurance agent to ask if workers' compensation insurance coverage is required for workers they plan to hire. If it is needed, employers may obtain it from any workers' compensation insurer in Oregon.
