

Ingles visit Heppner museum, remember school, flood of 1904

Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Ingle of Sparks, Nevada were very interesting visitors at the County Museum last Monday, June 28. Bill Ingle was known as Earl Kinney when he lived in Heppner. He is now 83. He left Heppner after he had completed his first year in high school up on the hill where the hospital stands now. He was known as Earl

Kinney because his mother Hessie Ingle, a notable dressmaker, married Louis Kinney when her son was seven years old. Mr. Ingle recalls summer work at the old ice plant with the Cowans. He was 10 years old when the great flood devastated Heppner. The Kinney family lived on Gilmore St. (where the Schumans live now) and they were not hurt at all. He tells that they went up higher on the east hill and watched the destruction. They spent the night in the old school along with most of the surviving citizens. After he finished his schooling, Bill became a railroad man. He worked for the Union Pacific for eight years and has been retired from the S.P. & S. after 37 years of service. He was an engineer.

The Ingles now reside at 1945 4th St., Apt. 19 in Sparks, Nevada. They were very happy to see Heppner looking so well. They visited old friends at the Pioneer Memorial Hospital and especially enjoyed visiting with Edna Turner. Mrs. Ingle's maiden name was Gesh and her family lived at Wamic, south of The Dalles.

Heppner youths Oregon scholars

Two Heppner youths have been named as Oregon scholars for 1976 by the state scholarship commission.

The state scholarship has recently selected 1600 students to be honored as Oregon Scholars for 1976. Students earning this honor are selected from all high schools in Oregon on the basis of their outstanding academic achievement.

The award is honorary and involves no commitment of grant or scholarship monies. Students from this area selected as Oregon Scholars are Robert Jones and Timothy Skow of Heppner High School.

The purpose of the Oregon Scholars program is to recognize the academic achievements of students who have excelled in high school, regardless of eligibility for need-based financial aid programs. The Oregon Scholars for 1976 were selected from graduating classes of Oregon high schools totaling approximately 33,000.

Each Oregon Scholar is presented with a certificate which acknowledges the student's superior academic record and is signed by Gov. Bob Straub, Vernon Duncan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Fred Shideler, chairman of the State Scholarship Commission. Oregon high schools generally incorporate Oregon Scholar award presentations into their graduation ceremonies.

CBEC 'good condition'

The Columbia Basin Electric Cooperative has reviewed the results of the Oregon Rural Electric Cooperative Tax Committee Report for 1975.

The comparative report shows the local utility to be in good financial condition.

The Columbia Basin average charge per kwh in 1975 was 1.248 cents compared to the state cooperative average of 1.312 cents per kwh.

The percent of line loss of the local Coop. was the lowest in the state. It was 6.40 per cent compared to the average of 9.52 per cent. The Cooperative saved about $12,500 for the year on power bill purchases compared to the average line loss.

Compared to the average cost paid by the Rural Electric Cooperatives in the state, the Columbia Basin Electric Cooperative paid $90,000 less for power in 1975 on average cost per kwh.

Columbia Basin had the highest "electric margins" as a per cent of revenue in 1975—at 16.74 per cent as compared to the 15 coops within the state.

Gardens, food costs encourage food drying

This summer more homemakers than ever before are preserving food for future use, states Extension Home Economist, Molly Saul. This is due, primarily, to the large number of home gardens and to the high cost of buying food. There appears to be an all time high in food drying, and building food dryers.

Mrs. Saul reminds homemakers that county extension offices have a wide variety of instructional bulletins on food preservation. All the information is based on research at either the U.S. Dept. of Agri-

Moon resigns Umatilla fair

With less than two months till fair time, fair manager Ralph Moon has resigned for personal reasons. Moon is the first ever full-time manager for the Umatilla County Fair. He was hired in February.

This year's fair begins August 3 at the fairgrounds in Hermiston. The County Fair Board was disappointed at the timing of Moon's departure. According to Chairman Les Wilcox, many of the last minute details which were to have been handled by Moon will now have to be delegated to volunteers.

"This puts us right back where we were in the past," said Wilcox. "Management of the fair and grounds has become a full time job. It's just not possible for a part time volunteer fair board to run the thing." Wilcox also stated that the board had hoped that Moon would stay on till the fair was over.

Last year's fair was the recipient of some criticism around Umatilla County. As a result the board has taken steps to upgrade the fair. They hired a full time manager to better promote and organize the fair. The most successful fairs in the state have a full time fair manager. Although much remains to be done, the board has plenty of entertainment in store for this year's fairgoers.

Locals learn CPR

Fifty local residents learned the proper way to save a life through volunteer classes in Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation.

The class was held recently to teach people how to give CPR properly and effectively.

Those completing the class were Sandy Stuchell, Dan Sweeney, Dave Jones, Ray Grace and Marsha Mathewson.

Instructing the class on a volunteer, no-charge basis was Linda Connor and Donna Thompson. The class is set up by the Oregon Heart Association to teach lay persons how to give CPR until medical help arrives.

Anyone interested in having a class can call Connor at 675-9945 or Thompson at 422-7139. Persons must be 13 years or older.
