Laurie McCabe returns to Heppner

A very special visitor last weekend was Laurie McCabe who spent Friday evening through Monday noon at the home of her parents Mary Jean and Ernest McCabe on Water Street. In a telephone visit we learned that she thinks Heppner looks "more colorful" since she last saw it over two months ago when she was hospitalized following an auto accident.

Laurie said she was especially anxious to visit Teresa Peck at the hospital here. She had a good visit and was glad that Teresa is doing nicely. Laurie commented that it is good to get the Heppner Gazette-Times in the hospital in Portland and that she really enjoys it.

Party Line

After attending the Umatilla Fair exhibits last Friday night I know that the Morrow County fair exhibitors can be proud. The Open Class Collectors Corner should bring out everyone's pride and joy. Their years of collecting and the time spent with their collections of accomplishment should be shared with the rest of the Morrow County residents. Also it has been mentioned that John Gochnauer is not the only cake baker in town. So let's show how many men in this community can give John a good run for his first prize, when he enters his prize winning 1976 official Wheathearts Cake.

Travelers last weekend found folks at Corvallis, Newport, Eugene, Medford and Prineville very interested in Morrow County's Bigfoot.

If you saw the John Day River last Sunday you would have thought you were seeing the Big Muddy. It was a brown, moving mudpuddle.

It is good to know that Boardman fresh potatoes are being displayed and sold in southern Oregon.

Tom Huston, who keeps Anson Wright Park neat and clean, says there was much too much rain there last week. Campers didn't enjoy being dripping wet.

Don't forget that your library returns to Sunday afternoon opening from 2-4 p.m. next Sunday, August 15.

Ed Bennett underwent open heart surgery Aug. 3 at St. Anthony's Hospital. His son Don Bennett, and wife, Pensacola, FL were able to visit for two weeks.

Wendall Connor underwent open heart surgery last Friday at St. Vincent's Hospital, Portland and is doing quite well.

Helen Curran and Justine Weatherford visited the Deschutes County Fair at Redmond during its last day, Sunday, Aug. 8.
