League sees concern

The Oregon Wheat League recognized some concern for area wheat and rain damage this week.

The Wheat Growers letter said there has been some concern about sprouted wheat . . . some unfounded concern . . . and some that is founded.

To check for sprout damage the kernel needs close scrutiny. A magnifying glass is advised, looking at the germ of the kernel. If it has started to sprout, the bran over the germ will start to split . . . and that is the way it sprouts.

'But by my spirit'

"Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts." Zechariah 4:6.

Eugene Sandow was a professional strongman in the 1800s who made his living performing acts of great daring in which he pitted his strength against nature's. Once, in San Francisco, he agreed to wrestle a 330-pound male lion. The lion's feet were carefully mittened and its mouth covered with a muzzle. Thus, only its power and quickness could be used against Mr. Sandow.

With only his bare hands for protection, Sandow entered the cage of the lion that had killed its keeper just one week earlier. The animal charged and Sandow stepped aside. Quickly he grabbed the lion around the neck and with one arm and around its middle with the other. He lifted the animal shoulder high, gave it a "bear hug" and hurled it across the cage.

The startled lion roared as it rushed Sandow again. This time it struck a blow toward its adversary's head. Sandow barely jerked his head away in time and the lion tamer outside the cage screamed for Sandow to get out. But Sandow side-stepped again, got another grip, and gave the lion another tremendous squeeze. This time the lion clutched and scratched in spite of its mittens. But Sandow hung on and wouldn't let go. Again he flung the animal away as the onlookers screamed for him to get out.

Then, of all things, Sandow turned his back to the lion and waited for the animal to spring. The lion rushed and sprang directly onto the strongman's back. Sandow threw up his arms, grabbed the animal around the neck and flung it over his head.

Some time later a rematch was staged and Sandow again entered the cage. The lion would not fight him, even when the strongman lifted the animal up onto his back and walked around the cage with the lion over his shoulders.

The Bible says that the devil goes around like a roaring lion. (1 Peter 5:8) It also says that if we resist the devil, he will flee from us (James 4:7). But only in the strength of God's spirit can we defeat the devil.

48 month auto loans

1st time During the past five years the retail price of an average car in America rose 37%. This means that a car that cost $4,000 in 1971 costs over $5,400 in 1976.

The way we see it, we can't do anything about bringing down the price you have to pay these days, but we sure can do something about stretching out the time you have to pay it in. That's why we now offer 48-month auto loans.

Up to 48 months to pay That's the key to lower installments for you. Depending on the purchase price we can give you up to 48 months to pay for the new car, van, camper or light truck you buy. How do you go about it? Easy. Just come to any of our 144 branches throughout the state and ask about our simple interest FirstLoan for autos.
