This weekend was rather a quiet one for the paper, some of our G-T staff attended a picnic on Sunday at the Umatilla Marina. Wil said the football was rough and the food was delicious. It was then to Boardman to cover the Harvest Festival. The Fairview school site was dedicated on Saturday afternoon with a lot of old timers and classmates there. On Sunday, it was to the small wedding of Jim Rogers and Coetta DeBraal, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Boyer, Lexington.

I received a telephone call from one of Lois Winchester's great admirers. It seems as though Lois is a joy to the senior citizens of our community, always giving fresh vegetables and bouquets of flowers to everyone she can. A smile and thoughtfulness can go a long way these days and Lois has time for both.

Doug Gonty has been home from the Air Force Missile base in Grand Forks, ND for 2 weeks. Doug is now a senior airman in the missile site security there. His brother Tom, drove back with Doug to Grand Forks. This makes the second trip there for Tom in the last nine months.

It will be Ladies night tonight (Thursday) for the Elks ladies. The gourmet Chinese dinner that will be served, is one we shouldn't miss. Feed the kids at home mom, and take the hubby out to dinner. The dinner starts at 6 and cards at the same time as Lodge, 8 p.m.

Old friends, who first met Frank and Hazel Hamlin in Panama, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burns, and son Bud, Hawaii, visited the Hamlins over the weekend. The Burns have lived most of their lives in the islands, but are moving to Oregon this year. There is a saying, a nice place to visit but I don't think Freda Majeske would agree with me, tho she seems to think the islands are great.

From Corvallis this week is Lavonne Bloodsworth, to visit her new granddaughter, Jessica Jamie Sands.

Pat and Karen Cutsforth have returned from Canada, where they vacationed and looked at an experimental wheat station.

Tom and Irene Wilson are visiting here this week from their home in Sand Point, ID. Tom was formerly with the Soil Conservation Service here. They have been staying with Tom's sister, Johanne Wood. They also plan to visit friends at Ukiah.

Ione

'Landscaping' topic of discussion

"Landscaping the Home Grounds" was the topic of discussion at the Ione Garden Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Osmin on Sept. 13 with Mrs. Wayne Hams assisting.

Mrs. Norman Nelson briefed the group on the basics of planning a yard and farmstead. Under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Martin the group walked around the yard evaluating its good and bad points. Suggestions were made about possible changes that might be made to better suit her needs and those of her family considering the three main areas: public, private and service.

Following a potluck lunch a Mini-Flower Show following the theme "Flowers Can Be Fun" was held with Mrs. Fred

Martin and Mrs. H.S. Huber acting as judges. There were 45 horticulture specimens and five arrangements. Sweepstakes in the horticulture division went to Mrs. Kenneth Palmer for her tuberous begonias and in the arrangements to Mrs. Lee Pettyjohn for her all-green arrangement entitled "Cool in a Crisis."

During the business meeting a letter was read from our former member, Vida Heliker, thanking the group for helping with her yard sale before she moved to Seattle.

The group voted to contribute to the Carrillon Bells at Willamette Cemetery in the name of Rita Wolff, a former member. A request was read for copies of pictures of the historical burr oak tree at Petteysville and the locust at the Kenneth Peck ranch to be sent to National Council of Garden Clubs.

The next meeting was announced for Oct. 13 at the Willows Grange Hall with Silbur Burkhardt, Landscape specialist, leading the discussion.

Teachers Open House

The annual Open House for teachers of the Ione Elementary and High School was held at the Ione Public Library on Sept. 13, 11 a.m. Topic Club Library Board members, Mrs.

Van Hubbard, Mrs. Roy Lindstrom and Mrs. Dave Baker acted as hostesses.

Coffee, punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Hubbard, club librarian.

Religious courses offered Sept. 20

Religious education classes and activities for young people will begin at All Saints on Monday, Sept. 20 on the basis of released time. Young people are most welcome to attend. It is important for a notice of intention to attend be given to the schools. A full year of study will be devoted to the sacramental life in the Christian community as well as study and experiencing the Christian Year. The Christian Year with its liturgical seasons and holy days is both a source of inspiration as well as instruction in the life of Jesus Christ and His church.

Adult education opportunities will be held on Sunday mornings at 9:45 a.m., with much of the same material as above. Emphasis will be placed on Biblical study and interpretation. In addition, classes for Confirmation preparation and adult inquiry will begin in the near future.

Next Sunday, the 15th Sunday after Pentecost, the Eucharist will be celebrated according to the Trial Rites of the Episcopal Church. Musical settings and hymns will be Folks Songs, Spirituals and Songs of Praise. The sermon will be "Living the Christian Life in Three Dimensions."

A word of thank you to so many who attended and supported the barbecue at the church during the rodeo.

Special thank you's to Western Empire Corporation, Ir-rigon for donating 250 pounds of No. 1 baking potatoes and also to Harold Wright and R. Mahoney for donating the meat. Without these gifts we would not be successful in providing both a fine meal and good fellowship.
