

New grade school teachers

LINDA MURRAY is a native of Heppner. Many remember her as Linda Orwick. A graduate of the University of Oregon, she will teach junior high language arts. She has taught at Junction City for two and a half years and is glad to be back in Heppner after seven years away.

MARY BENEDICT teaches kindergarten in Heppner. She is also a U of O graduate and holds two degrees in elementary education and psychology. A native Portlander, she finds her first small town life pleasant.

SUSAN DICKER teaches in the resources class at Heppner with mentally retarded youngsters. She received her schooling at Illinois and the U of O. She appreciated the warm welcome and "hopes to live up to expectations."

MARILYN POST will teach first grade at Heppner. A native of Eastern Oregon and the Grande Ronde Valley, she received her education at Eastern Oregon State College and has taught in the Pendleton school district. "I didn't feel like a stranger here," she said of her welcome.

Attends seminar

Ernie McCabe of Central Market in Heppner attended a retail meat seminar last week at the Olympic Hotel in Seattle, WA.

Among the subjects covered in detail were: consumer attitudes toward seafood, microbiology and the retailer, temperature control, sanitation and products displays.

CB'ers elect Carter

The Morrow County CB'ers held their first, organizational meeting Sept. 12 and elected officers.
