Heppner High School's homecoming court offers beauty as well as royalty.

Five girls were selected by the HHS football players to represent them at this year's winter homecoming activities.

Queen to be crowned

One of the five girls will be crowned Friday night during halftime ceremonies.

Three seniors and two juniors will grace the grid iron. They are Bonnie Schiller, Sally Matheny and Kristi Smith, seniors; and Janice Healy and Shelley Thompson, juniors.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Matheny. She likes to water ski and is an avid photographer.

Kristi is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallard K. Smith.

She is a nurse's aide at Pioneer Memorial Hospital.

Janice, head cheerleader at HHS, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Healy. She also is a varsity volleyball player. Shelley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Thompson, is an energetic volleyballer who plays both JV and varsity ball. She is also an HHS cheerleader.

Bonnie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Schiller. Bonnie was a member of the Morrow County Fair court and is active in volleyball this year.

'It's depressing'

There you are.

A senior in high school. Outstanding student and athlete.

Quarterback on the school's undefeated football team. Doing a good job at the signal calling spot, completing 50 per cent of your passes.

Then wham! A tackle on a QB sneak leaves you holding a throbbing passing arm. Diagnosis: dislocated shoulder. Remedy: Isolation for about six weeks.

A senior quarterback's dream can burst like a bubble just like that. Ask Dave Allstott, Heppner's senior offensive grid general.

He doesn't call signals in the huddle any more. He doesn't bark out commands at the line. He sits sometimes with the team, other times in the bleachers like any other Mustang booster.

What goes through his head? "It's depressing," Dave said. "It's something you don't expect. It ended so fast."

But Allstott isn't one to dwell on the past. He's already looking toward basketball, his favorite sport, where he is a standout forward.

Doctors told Dave to do a lot of running and stay in shape. Lifting weights with his left arm and legs will keep him in shape and isolating the right arm should mend it.

The shoulder was dislocated inwards on the ball joint. It happened in the third quarter against Riverside two weeks ago.

Allstott called a play in the huddle. But when he got to the line, the linebackers were spread out 10 yards. "It was wide open," Dave said.

He decided to take the ball himself. After a good gain, somebody "got hold of my arm" and the next thing he knew, "it started hurting."

Allstott continues to be one of the Mustangs biggest supporters. Although his body isn't in the game, his mind and heart are.

Wait till basketball season.
