'Tisha' reviewed by Heppner, lone readers

Members of Ione's Topic Club journeyed to Heppner Tuesday evening, October 12, to be the guests of the Bookworms. Mrs. Harold Becket, Bookworm president, welcomed the lone ladies to the gathering in the James Thomson home.

The evening's program was a review of a new book, "Tisha," presented by Bookworm Frances Mitchell.

As she introduced the book, Mrs. Mitchell told what she could about its author, Robert Specht. He was born and grew up in New York City, but presently lives in Malibu, CA. He has been an editor in the Los Angeles offices of a major publishing firm and is now a free-lance writer of books and screen fiction. He is at work on a sequel to the popular "Tisha."

Mrs. Mitchell produced a map of Alaska and the Yukon Territory and traced the locations of the story.

The story is set in Alaska in 1927 and is the true story of Anne Hobbs. Full of energy and ideals, Anne treks across the northern tundra to become schoolmarm in the remote gold-rush settlement of Chick-en. Here her life's adventure begins—an adventure that pits her against the relentless Alaskan winter and the equally relentless, sometimes savage, determination of the whole colorful lot of Chick-enites that Anne will conform, for her own good, to their standards.

Three men court Anne's favors: Joe Temple, handsome and cynical; Cabaret Jackson, a brawling frontiersman; and Fred Purdy, warm, generous, and half-Eskimo.

Her neighbors' open-hearted welcome cools as Anne's friendship with Fred Purdy grows stronger. It evaporates when she seats the little Indian boy named Chuck in class with her white students. And when Anne gets her back up, hostility erupts.

Amid the turmoil, Anne finds the strong center of herself. And all along her way—even as she fights for the man she loves and the children who have become hers—Anne makes the most of the very real joys of life in the North Country.

Professional reviewers praise this book. They write that not since "Mrs. Mike" has the story of a young woman in the untamed north been told so well.

What Is A Little Boy?

By Katherine Rozelle Farrar

What is a little boy?
A bundle of Love; a heap of joy;
Imagination, action and make-believe.
Of money and things he craves not a lot.
He'll improvise with what he's got.
Give him a ball and a bat
Maybe a policeman's hat.
He's a Babe Ruth or a Willie Mays
Making his name; reaching for the Hall of Fame.
Or the law enforcement cop on his block.
Seriously walking his beat; his the "law-abidingest" street.
Add a football new; a fire engine.
A soldier's cap, Mayhaps a big drum, too.
Sirens screaming he'll go careening all over town,
Saving all the houses from burning down.
Home again he's a soldier brave, drum going "Boom!
Boom!"
All wars are won simply by "Booming" around the room.
Now it's time to punt and pass,
Dad and grandpa envision him in the world of men,
A Johnny Unitas or a Joe Namath passing again.
So it goes till Mother calls,
"Time to call it a day; time to end your play."
Soon a drowsy lad is tucked in bed.
To dream of another wonderful day and all the roles he'll play.

Editor's Note:

Mrs. Farrar wrote a poem about a little girl going to her first day of school recently. By popular demand, Mrs. Farrar, 81, has written this poem with her four-year-old great-grandson in mind. Scott William McLeod, she says, is typical of all little boys.

"THE UNFAIR NUCLEAR ENERGY BAN MEASURE WOULD PUT YOUR ELECTRICITY SUPPLY AT THE MERCY OF 11 POLITICIANS."

Measure 9 would allow as few as 11 legislators to stop the building of nuclear electric generating plants. That means you'd be denied a source of energy that's been proven safe, economically sound, and environmentally clean. And which is badly needed. Your NO vote will help assure a plentiful supply of electric power, and the jobs that go with it.

First there was darkness

And then there was LIGHT!

As Rural Electrics such as Columbia Basin came into being—providing electric service to vast rural areas of the country.

Electric usage was first forecast at low levels but—in recent years the member-owners of Columbia Basin Electric Coop have used electrical power in greater and greater amounts:

1974 fiscal year BPA purchases—$2,541,000 kWh
1975 fiscal year BPA purchases—165,584,000 kWh
1976 fiscal year BPA purchases—120,815,000 kWh.

Anti-nuclear advocates would favor a no growth trend or a return to what?

Facts indicate the need for nuclear generation.

Nuclear generation has a safety record apparently unparalleled in industry.

Vote common sense, not emotion—
