Sophs face aptitude tests

Sophomore students in Morrow County's three high schools will be taking the General Aptitude Test Battery beginning this week.

School counselors, Vi Lambam at Heppner High, Gordon Meyers at Ione High and Mike Wetherell at Riverside High, are in charge of administering the tests.

The tests assess students' individual potential abilities to perform specified physical and mental activities. With the assistance of their school counselors, students use the test results to help them identify the types of career in which they have potential for success.

Under the direction of the Oregon State Employment Service, the Morrow County School District is participating in a norming study for a new system for scoring the GATB. A requirement of the study is that the ethnic and minority composition of the sample group be noted. Students will be requested to provide this information when they take the test. Parents who wish further information about the study are advised to contact the counselor of their student's school.

A trip to the Trojan nuclear plant has been slated by the Morrow County Extension Service and set up for October 28.

The trip will cost interested persons $8.50 and a bus will be leaving the fairgrounds in Heppner at 5:30 a.m. on Thursday. Sack lunches are asked.

After the tour, passengers will be dropped off in Portland for an afternoon downtown to shop or browse.

FFA slaves raise $1654

A total of 57 bodies were sold as slaves last week in the first annual Heppner High School Future Farmers of America Slave Auction.

The group raised $1,654.50 in the sale. One advisor, Hal Whitaker, and 56 students were auctioned off to the highest bidder for an eight hour work day.

The junior class had the highest average per student sales, but it was the younger freshmen class that earned the most total money for the FFA. With the money, the FFA chapter will hold banquets, and be able to attend state and national conventions and judging competition.

The freshmen, with 26 slaves, sold for $692 for a $26.63 average. The 11 sophomores went for $305 and a $27.72 average. The junior class, numbering 15, sold for $500 and a $33.33 average. The four seniors went for $117 and a $29 average.

The average for the total 57 persons sold was $28.50. The high bid went for Sam Myers, sold for $50 to his father, Jerry Myers.

Morrow County Grain Growers and Orville Cutsforth shared the big bidders spot, each spending $155 on FFA slaves. Cutsforth's high bid was $35, spent on Bruce Young, junior; Chris Zita, freshman; Jack Yocom, junior.

MCGG's high bid of $30 each bought Jacki Mollahan, sophomore, and Cindy Dougherty, junior.

Other high bidders included Terry Thompson, $90; Bill Kenny, $90; Jerry Dougherty, $82.

The FFA chapter expressed their appreciation to all bidders for their support. They also thanked Gary Grieb, auctioneer for the evening auction.

Virginia Whitaker purchased her husband, Hal, FFA advisor, for a full day's work at $40.
