Ringling doorbells

Adventists ask disaster relief

Again during the pre-Christmas season, as they have done in past years, volunteers from the local Seventh-day Adventist Church will be ringing door bells in the community to bring the latest reports of SDA humanitarian services and give opportunity to again have a part in this large-scale assistance operation.

Lest anyone should find his initial reaction to be of the "Bah, humbug! There are too many calls for money already" variety, please consider just a few specifics—a tiny thumbnail sketch of what last year's contributions have done:

Sent tons (literally) of food, clothing, blankets, tents, etc., to Guatemala after the devastating earthquake earlier this year. Repeat for Mexico after last month's Hurricane Liza, and for Turkey (still continuing) plus help for our own country's needs, as in the flooding on the West Coast last December, to name just a few major disasters for which assistance has been given.

Conducted Friendship camps for underprivileged children in places as diverse as Oregon and Africa—and points between. Given aid in individual and family emergencies across our own nation.

Summing briefly, 11,765—nearly twelve million—people have received aid this past year because of the generosity of other people who are, at the moment at least, better situated, and who are willing to share with the unfortunate.

Disaster relief, whether on a major scale or on a personal level is, of course, not the main burden of the church. However, this program has grown to such proportions that it requires tremendous amounts of money (and workers—mostly volunteers) to answer the urgent calls that keep coming.

So, during the next three weeks on a clear, cold evening (or maybe a foggy or snowy evening!) don't be surprised to hear Christmas carols wafting into your home, and to be given opportunity to have a part in sharing warmth, food, and hope to people who are cold, hungry and bewildered.

As has been mentioned in the past, the collection of the tremendous amounts of money needed for an operation of this size is done by volunteers, and the money sent to a department already incorporated within the church structure so nothing is lost to overhead. You may rest assured that this will be one Christmas gift for which you will truly get your money's worth.

Soroptimists to buy dolls

Dolls for Christmas gifts will be purchased by Soroptimist International, Heppner Club, and given to Heppner Neighborhood Center to distribute, it was decided at a recent meeting. Soroptimist sponsored Sunshine Blue Birds will assist in collecting old dolls to be rejuvenated and used for presents later. Individual contributions by members will purchase the new dolls.

A donation of $25 to be used for purchase of turkeys for Christmas distribution by Neighborhood Center will also be given by the club.

The porcelain plates depicting Morrow County's famous courthouse, being sold by the club, will be reduced in price on a Christmas special from the regular $7.00 to $5.00 until Dec. 25. These can be used as a special plate or a decorative wall hanging piece. They will be sold at the Artifactory, Peterson's Jewelry, or through any Soroptimist.

Christmas party for the club members and spouses was set for Dec. 5 at the Episcopal parish hall at 6:30 p.m. There will be a Dutch auction held to raise funds for operating expenses of the club.

Show set

Morrow County Creative Arts will hold an art show this month, featuring artists from the local area.

The show, slated for Dec. 17 and 18, will feature oil paintings and crafts, according to Janet Beitel, president of the club. The Friday and Saturday show will run from 10-5. Refreshments will be served.

A meeting is planned prior to the show on Dec. 9 at noon at West of Willow. Anyone interested in the Creative Arts Club is urged to attend.

Installation slated

Installation of Morrow County Grange officers will be held at Greenfield Grange, Boardman, Saturday, Dec. 4, at 4 p.m. Morton Wolverton of Columbia Grange will be the installing officer.

There will be a social evening beginning with a potluck supper.

we're here at last

With a full-service banking facility. We've been planning for months and how we can bring you the convenience of a local office. We're excited about it, and we hope you are, too.

That's right. Full-service banking.
