Kim Pettyjohn was crowned Worthy Advisor for the ensuing term by her father, Mr. Paul Pettyjohn, Jr.

Her theme for the term is "Extend the hand of friendship," and her colors are blue, white and silver. The symbol is friendship and her flower is the carnation.

Addendas were given honoring Lisa Martin, Past Worthy Advisor, Kristi Edmundson, Grand Representative to Germany, and Tammie Tucker, Grand Choir Member. Each were presented a pin appropriate to their office.

Kim then introduced the members of her family—her father, Paul Pettyjohn, Jr., sisters, Kelly and Chris; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pettyjohn, Sr.; her aunt and cousins, Mrs. Wayne Hams, Deena and Shawn; her great-aunts, Mrs. Lloyd Morgan, Mrs. Doc Sherer, Mrs. Marion Palmer, and Mrs. Gladys Drake.

A reception was held in the dining room. The serving table was centered with a large white sheet cake decorated in blue and silver, honoring Kim Pettyjohn, Worthy Advisor, and congratulations to Tammie and Kristi, and was flanked by blue candles in silver candle holders. Coffee was served by Gladys Drake, punch by Dot Halverson, and Dianna Hams cut and served the cake.

Silk, Satin 4-H studies sewing

The Silk and Satin 4-H sewing club met at Marie Oswald's house on Tuesday, Jan. 18, 1977, at 3:30 p.m. The vice-president, Anne Murray, called the meeting to order. Tedi Coffman was a visitor.

We learned to run the sewing machine and learned to stitch straight seams, curved seams, and how to thread the machines.

Our next meeting will be Feb. 15. Sharon Crowell brought cupcakes and Marie Oswald had punch. Next month we will start our fair projects.

New displays at museum

Two new displays are now ready for public viewing at the Morrow County Museum in Heppner. The new displays consist of old model telephones and kerosene lamps, according to Mrs. Rachel Harnett, museum curator.

The display of old telephones was given to the museum by a Heppner resident who declined mention for the donation. Central to the telephone collection is an old wall phone built in 1894.

The second new display consists of 39 miniature kerosene lamps supplied by Ida Farra of Heppner.

The museum displays may be viewed from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. on Sundays.

The museum is closed weekdays during the winter, but out of town visitors may request weekday tours by contacting personnel in the adjacent city library on Monday or Wednesday afternoons or by calling Mrs. Harnett at 676-9434 other times.

Speaker slated

Dr. Andrew Ben Loo, Director of the Pocket Testament League for Southeast Asia, will be the guest speaker at the Kinzua Community Church on Wednesday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m.

Dr. Loo will be a most interesting speaker, since he has a broad background in an area of the world many Americans are interested in, but know little about. Dr. Loo was pastor of the church attended by former President Chiang Kai-shek and many other high officials of the Free China government.

Museum visitors

Mrs. Calista Minor Waite of Caldwell, ID., granddaughter of early Morrow resident Art Minor and great-granddaughter of early pioneer Ellis Minor, visited the County Museum last Sunday.

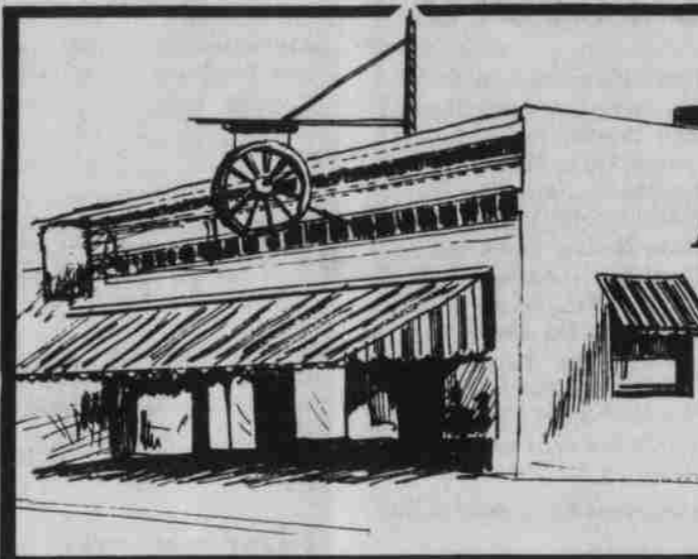

Mrs. Waite brought a suitcase full of old scrapbooks, pictures and newspaper clippings for the museum. Rachel Harnett says she hasn't yet sorted through this valuable historic material.

Mrs. Waite never lived in Morrow County. Her parents lived at Mt. Vernon. Her grandfather, Art, was the younger brother of the widely known Oscar Minor, who farmed where the Fred Hoskins are today, just north of Heppner.
