

Homemakers Day, May 3

Spring event planned to honor all Morrow County women

"Women's Day '77" will be the theme for the annual Morrow County Homemaker's Day, May 3, at the Elks' Lodge, Heppner. The special spring event is intended to honor all women of the county, with guest speakers, luncheon, and other special programs. All women and men of the county are invited to attend. The Advisory Committee is in charge of events for the day. Local Creative Arts members will stage their Spring Art Show in conjunction with the event.

Doors will open to the public at 10:00 a.m. with a coffee hour, registration, and time to view the art show. Special guest speaker, Marcelle Straatman, OSU Extension Specialist, will present a program of interest to all women at 10:45, followed by a no-host luncheon from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m. During the lunch hour, Erin Evans, 4-H presentation champion, will share information on "Denim Recyclables." Immediately following, Valerie Madison, IFYE to Switzerland, will present a slide show and international viewpoint. Events will conclude at 2:30 p.m. Claudia Hughes, Heppner, will serve as mistress of ceremonies, assisted by all members of the Advisory Committee. Registration will be by members of Rhea Creek Study Group, with Irrigon women in charge of the coffee hour. The arts and crafts show will remain open all day for viewing. Luncheon will be served by the wives of the Elks' officers, at a cost of $2.75. Working women are invited to attend the luncheon, or any part of the program. Babysitters will be available. Mothers are requested to bring sack lunch for children.

The "Women's Day" theme was chosen as a tribute to all the wonderful women who serve in so many ways to make our county a great place to live. It is the hope of the Homemakers' Advisory group that everyone will join with them in saying "thank you...women of Morrow County," and share an entertaining day.

Resigns post

Anne Doherty, coordinator of Blue Mountain Community College activities in the Heppner-Lexington-Ione area for the past two years, resigned that post effective the end of the current school year, the college Board of Education reported. The board commended her performance. During her two-year term in the job, registrations in that area rose from about 150 to 350 and course offerings almost doubled. In addition to serving as college coordinator in the area, she was the source of information on the college for residents of south Morrow County.

Persons interested in taking over the job of BMCC coordinator in the Heppner-Lexington-Ione area are asked to contact Larry O'Rourke, BMCC, as soon as possible.

Office day changed

Farmers' Home Administration office day in Heppner will be changed from May 4 to May 11. The supervisors will be attending a training meeting. Office Day in June will be as scheduled, first Wednesday in the month.

Wheat League to hold annual workshop

The Morrow County Wheat League will have their annual spring workshop on May 4, 1977, at the Lexington Grange Hall, starting at 7 p.m., Tommy Martin, Morrow County Wheat League president, said.

The program for the evening will feature Don Rydrich, Weed Research Agronomist from the Pendleton Experiment Station, who will speak on dryland non-tillage and reduced tillage wheat production. This is really the year we could use some of these practices.

Jim Johnson of The Dalles, State Chairman of the Safety

Committee for the Oregon Wheat League, will bring us up to date on where we stand with O.S.H.A. and what the Wheat League is doing to deal with it. This will include what the farmer has to look for in the future concerning these regulations. Harold Kerr, our County Agent, will review the cost of wheat production for the county last year.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting by the Morrow County Wheathearts.

Let's have a good turnout. It should be a very informative meeting.

Concerns expressed during stop

Public concern over correctional facilities and the future of the Boardman Bombing Range were among responses made in Heppner Monday during a one-hour stop by the traveling office of U.S. Senator Bob Packwood of Oregon. Marsh Hieronimus of the Senator's Portland office said the response from people in Eastern Oregon has been good. He said the good response may result in scheduling more frequent visits of the traveling field office. Hieronimus, who is district assistant to Sen. Packwood, said that persons who were unable to visit the office during the Heppner stop may direct questions directly to Senator Packwood in Washington or to the Portland office. The Portland office mailing address is: Sen. Bob Packwood, Post Office Box 3621, Portland, Ore. 97208.

Heppner FFA teams take first

On Friday, April 22, Heppner's Vocational Agriculture classes traveled to Hermiston to participate in a field day. The Hermiston Experiment Station held their Beef Cattle Improvement Day and Judging Clinic.

Vo-Ag students and cattlemen had the chance to participate in judging several classes of breeding bulls, replacement heifers, feeder steers, and finished steers ready for slaughter. Participating as a judge and speaker was Burke Healey of the Healey Brothers Flying L Ranch at Davis, Okla. He gave a talk on "Selecting Bulls for Total Performance."

Fred Williams of the Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, D.C., gave a demonstration of grading feeder cattle according to proposed new feeder cattle grades. In addition, he explained how the 1976 revised grades of carcass beef have influenced the industry.

In the judging contest, FFA teams and individuals judged a total of 12 classes. Heppner's advanced team took first with 1642 points. Heppner's Greenhand team also took first in their division with a total of 1594 points. Doug Anstegui was high individual in the FFA division with a total of 556 points, followed by the third place individual, Ken Grieb, with 553 points.

Members on the advanced team were: Doug Anstegui, Ken Grieb, Julie Grieb, Kyrnn Robinson and Cindy Dougherty.

The Greenhand team was comprised of the following: Geri Grieb, Jo Lynn Daly, Marie Van Schoiack, Todd Harrison and Larry Palmer. There were 285 F.F.A. members judging from 11 different schools.

Everyone invited to attend special night

Monday evening, May 2, the National Honor Society of Heppner High School is inviting all parents and friends of the school to come and visit. "We're proud of our school and would like our parents to come and see what's going on with our classes and clubs," says Sharon McCarl, president of the group. "We're having it at 7:30 because most parents can't come in the daytime." Among many things planned for the evening are: music by the stage band; a style revue by the Home Ec. classes; a tour of the new shop facility; an explanation of how tests are used in career choice, by Mrs. Lanham, counselor; three plays by the Drama Workshop class; and a slide-show report on the Spanish II class' recent trip to Mexico. Teachers will have their classrooms open, with varying presentations, discussions, and exhibits in the different subject areas. Some of the clubs will have demonstrations and exhibits as well.

After a general assembly welcoming period in the gym at 7:30, bells will ring for three half-hour periods, enabling parents to go to classes of their choice.

Refreshments will be served throughout the evening by GAB (Girls' Athletic Boosters Club).

According to Jane Rawlins, faculty advisor, one reason for choosing this date was that the decorations from the Junior-Senior Prom could be left up for parents to see and enjoy.
