Accident injures Condon man

A single-car accident occurred Friday evening approximately three miles northwest of Lexington when the driver apparently blacked out at the wheel. The driver, Robert A. Radabah, 19, Condon, was driving from Lexington to Ione when he apparently lost consciousness and his car struck a guardrail and spun back into the roadway. First aid was administered by Deputy Wayne Maxam and Radabah was taken by ambulance to Pioneer Memorial Hospital where he remained for three days.

A passenger, Arthur D. Hayworth, 29, Condon, was slightly injured but did not require hospitalization. The front end of the vehicle was extensively damaged in the collision which occurred at approximately 8 p.m.

Roy Munkers passes in King City

Former Morrow County resident Roy Allen Munkers, 87, died last week in King City. He was a member of a pioneer family in Morrow County and lived here for 50 years before moving to Yachats in 1960. He later lived in Sherwood and Woodburn. He was preceded in death by his wife Anna, who died last April.

Princess Teresa 'travels her own path in life'

Being selected to the same court reigned over by an older sister doesn't happen too often. But it did this year and Morrow County Fair and Rodeo Princess Teresa Proctor says the arrangement works out just fine.

"I'm used to her by now and at least I don't have to worry about rides anywhere," Teresa says of her sister Mary Anne, who chauffeurs the two around in her blue MG.

"We get along fine. She does her part and I'm just one of the princesses," she says.

The sisterly impressions are apparent but Teresa is not about to be overly swayed by such influences, sororal or otherwise. She likes to follow her own paths.

Such as when asked of future education plans, the upcoming Riverside senior said she hopes to go to Blue Mountain Community College to study architecture.

Did she have any acquaintances in architecture who had headed her in that direction?

"No, I just like to draw and be creative," Teresa said. "I think architecture would be something different and interesting."

Until that opportunity comes along, Teresa is content at Riverside where she is active in National Honor Society, the Pep Club and the Spanish Club.

The curriculum planners at Riverside haven't been able to keep up with her pursuit of the Spanish language. She has already completed all three levels offered and will have to wait until she attends Blue Mountain to continue. Meanwhile, she has taken advantage of a Spanish Club-sponsored trip to Mexico City for a closer look at the culture and people she has been studying.

She made the nine-day trip south of the border last spring with eight other students from Riverside and six from Heppner.

The Morrow County Fair & Rodeo dance honoring Princess Teresa Proctor will be held Saturday, from 9-1 at the Fairgrounds Pavilion. Music for the event will be provided by The Continentals.

In addition to kindling an interest in further traveling, the trip gave Teresa a first hand view of that now-famous Portland duo of Bill Walton and Maurice Lucas, who along with the other Blazers, were traveling on the same flight to Los Angeles.

"They were so tall they couldn't even see us following them around the airport," Teresa said.

Aside from the Blazers, highlights of the trip included tours of gardens and ancient pyramids and the opportunity to share experiences with the locals.

"The country was nice and although I wish I could have stayed longer, I still think this is where I want to live," Teresa says of her Irrigon home.

Last year, Teresa was selected to the Umatilla Sage Riders Court but said her appearances were mostly limited to attending various rodeos. This year, her schedule is increased by various luncheons, banquets, parades and other events.

Teresa still finds time to earn some extra money by driving a potato truck during the summer. She also tries to help out on her father's 160-acre cattle breeding ranch whenever possible.

One thing she has had to drop has been her rodeo competition. That means her Palamino game horse "Sugar" has to stay home since Fair Court rules prevent her from riding a Palamino in the parades. As a substitute, she rides "Red," a quarter horse ridden by her sister as a Princess two years ago.

"I've been riding horses all by life and rodeo has been a part of it," she says. "I've always enjoyed it which is kind of strange since most kids in the Irrigon area aren't really into rodeo."

Another indication that Princess Teresa travels her own path.

Bert Ward, 95, passes

Bert Ward, passed away this week in Montana at the age of 95.

He was born in Bancroft, Mo., in 1882 and moved to Oregon in 1884 with his parents; sister, Mrs. John Adams; and five brothers, Frank, Dennis, Wes, Willie and Charlie. All homesteaded in and around the Dry Fork area.

He married Ola Fuqua of Eight Mile in 1904 and the couple had two children: Dallas Ward of Boulder Col.; and Vella Winkley of Salem.

Known as a fine farmer and horseman, he rode broncs with the late Scott Furlong and Billy Padberg. Old timers will recall the day he turned around three wagons and ten horses on Heppner's Main Street using only a jerk line. In 1920 he married Cora Sperry Walker of Hardman and the couple moved to Townsend, Mont., where he farmed until retirement.

He is survived by his son and daughter; a nephew, Wes Ward of Richmond, Cal.; and two nieces, Blanche McKeen and Pearl Larson of Portland.

Concluding services and interment were held in Townsend.
