

Farm tax relief launched

Oregon Congressman Al Ullman last week introduced legislation to alleviate an inadvertent tax burden imposed on farmers receiving federal disaster payments in 1978 for 1977 crops.

The tax problem arose because a U.S. Department of Agriculture backlog resulted in many 1977 disaster payments not being made until 1978. Because of the prolonged drought, many Oregon farmers received the disaster payments and now are faced with having to pay taxes on income from the payment as well as the 1978 crop.

Book tells of early Oregon cattle barons

"Cattle Barons of Early Oregon," a book about the beef moguls of early eastern Oregon has recently been published and is available by mail. The book is a softbound, mimeographed, 8 1/2 x 11, illustrated 54-page history of the big stockmen who dominated the region a century ago.

Featured are glimpses of such cattle barons as James Fulton, John Catlow, Con Shea, Pete French, Henry Miller, Bud Thompson, John Devine, John Todd, Dave Shirk, Andrew Clarno, Tom Overfelt and Pick Anderson. Copies are $4.50 each, post-paid, from the publisher, American Media, Ochoco Avenue, Prineville, Oregon 97754.

The bill will allow a farmer to elect to treat these disaster payments as 1977 income if the farmer can establish that, under usual business practice, income from the 1977 crops would have been reported in 1977.

The legislation was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, which is chaired by Ullman.

The 2nd District Congressman said the income bunching problem was brought to his attention by Wes Grillee, Executive Vice President of the Oregon Wheat Growers League.

1978 telephone directory lists number changes

Ione Fire Department is 422-7573.

All of the 30,458 directories should be delivered to the two-county area by Monday, Feb. 20.
