

Square dancing at Heppner Elementary

Swing your partner.....

Parents of fourth graders at Heppner Elementary School were treated to lively rounds of "do-si-doing" last Tuesday and Wednesday when students of Mrs. Lorena Jones and Andy Clark displayed the square dancing prowess developed in their winter physical education classes.

Mrs. Jones has been teaching square dancing "for quite a few years", while this was Clark's first exposure to the old-time calls. Both say the fourth graders are enthusiastic about square dancing.

"They really like it and learn very rapidly," Clark said. "There was no problem at all motivating the kids and it's one of the best P.E. activities I can think of."

The students invited parents to watch them display their new skill last week. Mrs. Jones' class dancing on Tuesday and Clark's on Wednesday. "Oh, Johnnie, Oh", "Take a Little Peek", "Red River", "Divide the Ring" and "Hinky, Dinky, Parley Voo", square dance classics all, were included in the program.

Refreshments were served after the dancing exhibition, and it's hard to say who enjoyed the day's activity more—the proud parents or the proud youngsters.

Ione club visits PMH residents

Members of the Ione Garden Club recently made their annual visit to the nursing home at Pioneer Memorial Hospital and presented each resident with a daffodil as a harbinger of spring.

A short program was staged which included violin music by Frances Smouse and a skit called "Bring Back the Environment to Me" performed in costume by Jean Nelson, Judy Osmin and Helen Martin.

The club also presented the residents with a bird feeder to be placed outside the viewing window.

Refreshments were served by club members Edith Nicholson, Loree Hubbard and Joyce Buchanan.
