

GED assistance available

It's not too late to start studying for either an adult high school diploma or a General Equivalency Diploma (GED) this spring, according to Vicki Tollefson, director of the local adult education program.

"Students can start at any time and progress at their own rate," she said.

Instructional material and help are available every Thursday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Neighborhood Center at 178 W. Willow Street in Heppner. Aid for persons who just want to improve such basic skills as reading and math is also available.

For more information, call Vicki Tollefson, 676-9224.
