

Minnesota HS students include Heppner in 4,300 mile tour

by Justine Weatherford
Science Consultant Lyle Bradley of the Anoka (pop. 15,000) and Coon Rapids (30,000), Minnesota Schools, north of Minneapolis, along with two other adults and twenty high school students, two of whom were from Europe, stopped in Heppner on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, viewed the county museum; took a short look about part of the community and then spent the night in nearby mountains.

Bradley was leading his 14th summer tour; Warren Rumsch, Coon Rapids biology teacher has accompanied the group for four years and

Tews back from trip to Wash. coast

The Paul Tews family of Ione returned Saturday from a week's vacation in Washington.

During the trip, their daughter, Natalie, registered for fall matriculation at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma. While on campus, the Tews had lunch at the university's coffee shop, where they visited with Mary Kirkelie, daughter of Laura Holtz of Ione.

The family spent the remainder of the week visiting Paul's mother, playing on the beach, and enjoying the Washington coastline.

14 complete hunter safety sessions

Fourteen Morrow County youths under 17 years of age recently completed a hunter's safety course, sponsored by the Morrow County Search and Rescue Posse.

Receiving Hunter Safety Certificates were Chuck Coffman, Danny Fortenberry, Sid Kennedy, Shawn Holt, Robin Scott, Susie Olson, Jon Mitchell, Kenneth Gochbauer, Ronda Crewse, John Stevens, Cord Adams, Randy Smith and Tedi Coffman, all of Heppner, and Duane Fetsch of Ione.

The Search and Rescue Posse will hold another hunters' safety course from July 24-27, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Morrow County Court-house.

Youthful hunters interested in the program may enroll at the Sheriff's office.

Kincaid boy hurts legs in accident

Jamie Kincaid, 14, youngest son of Ralph and Patti Kincaid of Silverton, is in traction at Pendleton's St. Anthony's Hospital following an accident last Friday at Eric Anderson's Earth Carpet operation.

Young Kincaid's legs were run over just below the waist by the rear tires of a forklift tractor, when the youth slipped while attempting to jump onto the moving machine. He is expected to remain in the hospital from four to six weeks.

Jamie, a "good little worker", according to Anderson, was helping out at the sod farm during a lapse in his normal duties at the Delbert Emert ranch.

Former Ione residents Ralph and Patti Kincaid were in town over the weekend to visit their son in the hospital.

Jessie Sweeney, the mother of a student was acting as "trip mother." The two Europeans were exchange students under the Youth for Understanding program who had been in Minnesota all year, a girl from Finland and a boy from Belgium.

home on June 10 and will return July 9. Their packed itinerary included many stops in North Dakota, Montana, British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, South Dakota as well as in their home state—the longest tour Bradley has led (about 4,300 miles).

They were well organized; everyone learns as they ride. Each student has prepared four academic talks on matters of interest along the route. The talks are delivered on the loud speaker in the moving bus.

The participating students were carefully selected; they took several shakedown trips; they share camp duties as they travel. Each needed "good physical and mental conditioning, high interest and curiosity, willing team effort, a sleeping bag, boots and backpack."

During the school year they earned much of the trip expense through fund raising activities. One girl trained to be a nurse for the trip, another took charge of entertainment, others assumed varying responsibilities.

Their brief look around this community resulted from Leader Bradley's interest in the historic round barn on the Hoskins' Ranch which he learned about at the library. He invited Heppner High junior Paula Heinrich, who just happened to be in the Museum-Library Building, to guide them past the local high school and the old barn and to talk a little about the area as their bus traveled.

The stop here came between their two-day visit at the Atomic Energy Reserve at Richland, Wash. and their tour of the John Day fossil beds. They camped in Morrow's mountains Wednesday night and enjoyed learning some wild lore from veteran trapper Carl McDaniel.
