County students not idle during vacation months

Ione High School senior Janet McElligott and Riverside High School junior Joseph Daltoso work puzzle with Lenna Holman, resident at the Odd Fellows Home of Oregon, during stopover at retirement complex prior to departure on a 23-day United Nations tour.

Griebs voted officers in State Angus Association

Ken Grieb of Lexington and Jim Clymore of Portland won the Oregon Junior Angus Association's showmanship contest, qualifying to represent their home state at the National Junior Angus Association Show at Des Moines, Iowa, July 20-21.

The state showmanship contest was held in conjunction with the 9th annual Oregon Junior Angus Assn. Field Day, which took place recently at Mulino.

During other activities at the state angus field day, Geri Grieb of Lexington won first place in the FFA angus judging contest, with Heppner High School's FFA judging team taking first place in the team category.

Ken Grieb was voted vice president of the Oregon Junior Angus Assn., with Geri Grieb elected secretary-treasurer. Meridee Smith of Beaver Creek was elected president.

McElligott and Daltoso tour UN, D.C.

The United Nations in New York was the destination of 16 Oregon high school students—including Janet McElligott of Ione, and Joseph Daltoso of Boardman—as the 28th annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, got underway in Portland last Thursday morning.

Including teenagers from throughout the state, the group left by bus for the 23-day journey which will include tours and explanations of sites of interest in Washington, D.C. as well as the United Nations.

Most youngsters were winners of speech and essay contests sponsored by local Odd Fellow Lodges and Rebekah Lodges, which pay the winners' way on these annual trips.

It is part of an international program through which high school students from the U.S. and Canada are introduced to the United Nations.

The Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are the only fraternal organization with a "seat" in the U.N.'s press section.

Phillip Sampson, 16, from New South Wales, Australia joined the Oregon delegation at the specific invitation of Mrs. Mavis Paull, an Oregonian who is this year's president of the International Association of Rebekah Assemblies, the international Rebekah organization.

Participating from Oregon were Theresa Coussens, Hillsboro; Valerie Olson, Tillamook; Tamara Tofte, Canby; Tiersa Harkins, Forest Groave; Joan Fowler, Salem; Barbara Modey, Burns; Janet McElligott, Ione; Heidi Wagner, Grants Pass; Teresa Smith, Reedsport; Michael Sauerwein and Todd Sprague, Portland; Ian Hague, Eugene; Joseph Daltoso, Boardman; Mike Wickman, Hood River; Matthew J. Heath, The Dalles; and Robin McFarland, Oak Ridge.

Kathy Wolff of Heppner, right, carries the Oregon banner high at the National Youth Science Camp at Bartlow, W.Va., where she is spending nearly a month taking part in classes and seminars ranging from radio astronomy to ecology. Only two high school seniors from each state were selected to attend the camp. With Kathy is Oregon's other representative at the West Virginia camp, Amy Cruikshank of Bend.
