

Ullman wants Navy to pay county Applications for Water Development loans should be submitted

U.S. Rep. Al Ullman has proposed that the federal government make payments in lieu of taxes for the Navy's use of the Boardman Bombing Range.

While seeking money from the government for the use of the land, Ullman pledged that he would "double my efforts to have the Boardman range removed from this valuable site."

If the Eastern Oregon Congressman's proposal is approved, Morrow County would collect $4,747 annually for the base from the federal government. The $4,747 assessment comes out to a dime per acre, the maximum the county would be able to receive under a formula included in the payment in lieu of taxes program administered by the Department of the Interior. The formula takes into consideration money the county receives from other federal sources, including timber harvest funds. The maximum remittance to local governments allowed by law is 75 cents per acre.

the nutritious meals and activities. They are not a charity program. Everywhere in the United States that seniors gather for such meals together they each contribute "door money" to help defray the cost of the meals. Some of the seniors also contribute assistance during and after the meals. A part of the food for these meals is donated. Some of the groups have harvested fruits and vegetables and helped to preserve or freeze them for the meal program. Mrs. Brindle has been fortunate in receiving many helpful donations at the Heppner Center.

A group of senior women gather at the center each Thursday afternoon for a social and craft time. They enjoy making interesting craft items which they sell at the Sidewalk Sale and at the before-Christmas Artfactory to gain funds to purchase more craft supplies to use at the center and at the program they assist with at the Pioneer Memorial Hospital. Examples of the articles made by these women can be viewed at the center on West Willow Street.

Seniors should be carefully studying their Morrow County Fair books and programs. Some will enter exhibits and win prizes. All want to remember that free admission passes are ready for them at the Neighborhood Center office in Heppner. Don't forget this!

include the still active bombing range.

The more than 47,000 acre installation provides no revenue to Morrow County, while the county is expected to provide highway maintenance and police protection to service the base. Ullman told subcommittee members.

"The land is merely the target for pilots training at bases located outside the state," Ullman said.

Ullman noted that the land is considered excellent for agricultural and industrial development. Until the Navy can be forced to vacate the land, Ullman said that "the bombing range land, in these circumstances, full merits the entitlement status."

Jernstedt appointed to OLCC review panel

State Senator Ken Jernstedt, District 28 Republican, has been appointed to the task force on Sunset Review of the Oregon Liquor Control Commission. The first meeting will be held in mid-August, with a total of eight meetings to be held before October 15. Recommendations of the Task Force on OLCC will be reported to the next legislature.

Sen. Jernstedt, because of his business commitments and experience in the Senate, has expressed an interest in the problems of OLCC. He said, "Changes should be made in quotas and enforcement of OLCC rather than eliminating the agency."

He added, "Under the present system OLCC makes its own rules and then enforces its own rules."

Sen. Jernstedt expressed strong feelings that the legislature was right last session when it passed legislation changing the number of OLCC commissioners from three to five. He said, "I am disappointed the Governor vetoed the bill, and I hope the next legislature will override that veto or develop new legislation to improve the situation."

Sen. Jernstedt asks that constituents in Senate District 28 contact him regarding their concerns and suggestions on OLCC.

Development loans should be submitted

The Water Resources Department has received a tentative ruling from the U.S. Department of the Treasury regarding the sale of bonds for Water Development Loans. Water Resources Director Jim Sexson announced today. The Water Development Loan Program was approved by the voters last fall but it has been stalled while the department awaited a needed verdict from the federal department.

Sexson asked the Department of the Treasury in February to determine if interest from the bonds would be tax exempt. The Department has responded that it cannot answer definitely until it has concrete examples of how the funds will be used. Sexson said, "To obtain a final ruling from the Department of the Treasury, the Water Resources Department must review and process loan applications. Once applications have been approved, further data can be submitted to the Department of the Treasury for review and its final decision."

Sexson encouraged interested parties to submit applications now. He said the department will begin processing applications for State Water Development Loans immediately. Applications for funds from the Water Development Loan Program may be submitted to the Water Resources Department, 555 13th Street N.E., Salem, Oregon 97310.
