

Blue Mountain College lists Fall schedule for evening classes

The fall schedule for Blue Mountain Community College evening division classes is now ready for publication.

There is a fee increase this year. The increase is hoped to create more equity between the day and evening classes. The cost will be calculated at the rate of $9 per each 10-hour section. A 30-hour course will be $27, a 20-hour course $18, a 10-hour course $9.

The schedule will be sent to every boxholder in Morrow and Umatilla counties in the form of a mailer. There will not be a schedule listed in the paper as previously done. The schedule that will be mailed will include the day and evening schedules for Blue Mountain. The pre-registration form for the evening classes will be included in the mailer. Since many of the classes are limited, pre-registration is essential. Full instructions will be included in the schedule.

The following is a preview of the classes offered for Fall 1978. Three of the classes will be taught by Blue Mountain instructors, and will offer transfer credit. The other courses will carry Blue Mountain credit.

The three transfer courses are:

History of World War II: This is the second term course. The first term is not required for enrollment.

Economics: The class will deal with the principles involved in the operation of the American economic system.

Horse Husbandry: Will cover horse training, behavior, reproduction, nutrition and disease. A lab portion is included.

The other courses being offered are:

Outdoor Photography: Dennis Toney will instruct this class which includes a week-end field trip with special instruction on photography of the outdoors. There will also be class time for developing the film.

Psychology: Arrangments for this class are still pending. Further details will be available at a later date.

Fundamental Principles of Geology, Chemistry, and Physics: This class, taught by Rod Aho, is designed for those who would like to gain a fundamental understanding of basic geology, chemistry, and physics. Field trips, lab experiments, and visual aides will be utilized to show how science can be relevant to everyday life.

Conversational Spanish: Gordon Muncck will be teaching this course designed for students who wish to learn basic communication in the Spanish language.

Basic Accounting: The course will be taught by Kathy Hazen for those desiring a basic knowledge of bookkeeping and accounting.

Upholstery: Ella Ross will give instructions on upholstering small objects. These basic instructions can then be applied to the larger items.

Intermediate and Advanced Tole: Two classes are being offered to accomodate the large number of people interested in painting. A student may take one or both classes if they have completed the beginning tole class.

Guitar: Ken Lemley will instruct those interested in learning to play the guitar on a step by step basis.

Cake Decorating: For the student wishing to learn or improve the skill of decorating.

Golf: John Edmundson will continue to instruct those interested in learning to golf. Any additional information can be obtained by contacting Nancy Brownfield, coordinator, 676-5039. All are encouraged to pre-register for the courses desired as soon as you receive the schedule in the mail.

New housing for BMCC is studied

Tentative plans for privately developed housing near the college were presented to the Blue Mountain Community College Board following a regular board meeting on August 16.

Jim Lynch, architect for NORPA Development Co. of Hermiston presented preliminary plans that would provide housing for 96 students in the first phase of a two-phase housing project that would ultimately accommodate 300 students.

The student housing project would be located on the east side of a draw, northeast of the present college campus. Phase one would be constructed almost entirely on land presently owned by NORPA. However, Phase two is tentatively planned on land owned by the college. Mr. Lynch suggested that perhaps some arrangements could be made for the exchange of this property in consideration for other site development that would be beneficial to the college.

The board asked the NORPA Development Co. to return to the September board meeting with more detailed requests for the board's consideration.

The living units proposed would be in a quad arrangement with four bedrooms in each quad, centered around kitchen, bathroom, and dining areas. While exact rental figures cannot be determined until construction is completed, Mr. Lynch estimated that the rent would range from $95 to $135 per student per month.
