

Combination birthday and farewell party was held last week for Carmen Parker, CETA worker at Heppner Neighborhood Center, who is leaving her duties working with senior citizens to enter Blue Mountain Community College. Well-wishing seniors presented Carmen with an assortment of gifts, plus a birthday cake fashioned in the form of a doll.

Game bird season will change little from last year

With the exception of a shortened grouse season and a reduced bag limit for snow geese in Lake and Klamath counties, the game bird seasons for 1978 are just as they were last year.

Brood counts by field biologists in northeast Oregon showed fewer numbers of blue grouse than last year, so staff biologists recommended a season one week shorter than the traditional one-month season. In western Oregon the season was shortened by three weeks and will run through the month of September.

Snow goose nesting success on Wrangel Island has been poor to nonexistent for several years due to snow cover during the breeding season and snow goose numbers from this important area have declined. To compensate, the hunting season framework set by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service called for more restrictive regulations for this species. The daily bag limit in Lake and Klamath counties, major snow goose hunting areas in Oregon, is reduced from three to one from October 14 through November 9.

Brood surveys in August showed pheasant production up by 26 per cent with most noticeable increases observed in the upper Columbia Basin and in Malheur County. Quail populations have dropped from the peaks of 1977 and 1976 but are still abundant in most areas of the state.

Chukar partridge populations which have been down for several years in southeast Oregon show some improvement this year, while populations in northeastern and central Oregon are down somewhat from last year. Hungarian partridge numbers show improvement over last year.

Sage grouse populations in southeastern Oregon remain at low levels, down 10 per cent from last year, and no season was recommended or adopted by the Commission.

Open season for blue and ruffed grouse in this area will be from Sept. 1 to Sept. 24. For chukar and Hungarian partridge, the local season will be from Sept. 30 to Dec. 31. For pheasants, Oct. 14 to Nov. 19. For quail, Oct. 14 to Dec. 31. For dove and band-tailed pigeon, Sept. 1-30. Duck and goose season for the local Columbia Basin counties will be from Oct. 14 to Jan. 21.

CHUCK BENNETT

Believes A Legislator Should Say NOW, What He'll Do THEN

DEMOCRAT - DISTRICT 55 REPRESENTATIVE

CHUCK BENNETT will be in Morrow County for a week, starting Thursday, Sept. 7 for public visits and door-to-door campaigning.

Meet CHUCK BENNETT at the West of Willow, Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7 p.m. CHUCK BENNETT wants to hear your views as well as tell you his.

Here are some of CHUCK BENNETT'S views on Oregon Issues:

WATER POLICY

"Developing agricultural water resources must have top priority and CHUCK BENNETT will fight for local control over water policy and full development of the Columbia River's irrigation potential."

BIG GOVERNMENT

"Solutions to society's various needs must be found outside government. Personal and cooperative action by citizens must be encouraged. Government must again become the tool of last, not first, choice in meeting community needs."

TAX REFORM

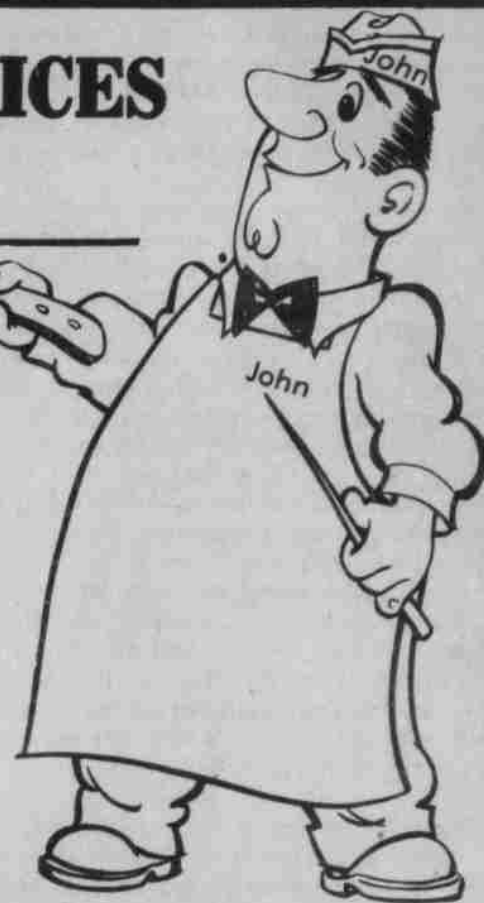

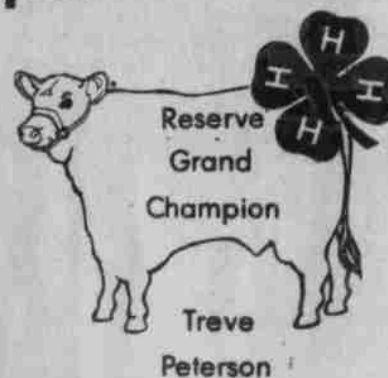

"Tax reform is the greatest challenge facing government in 1978. Changes in the state income and property tax laws along with responsible allocation of the state surplus can responsibly remove the tax burden from homeowners."
