

Police Report

Two Hermiston men pleaded guilty in Heppner Justice Court earlier this week to charges of possessing illegal deer meat.

Fined $305 each for the poaching charges were Richard R. Cochran, 25, and Roger Lee Bard, 24, both of Hermiston. The two also received suspended 30-day jail terms.

The two men were arrested by state police near the O'Brien Ranch on Little Butter Creek, where they allegedly had loaded an illegally killed doe and fawn into a pickup truck.

Kay Marquardt of Heppner received cuts and abrasions to her hand and wrist last week, when the pickup she was driving overturned along Hwy. 74, about one mile north of Lexington, sheriff's deputies said.

When Mrs. Marquardt rounded a corner, an oncoming car apparently forced her to steer to the right. As the pickup truck moved onto the berm and into a roadside ditch, she lost control of the vehicle, with the pickup coming to rest on its side.

Discussion concerning the operations of Irrigon's new safety officer, Tom Kelly, resulted in the appointment of Bill Cooley, councilman, as Police Commissioner, at the Irrigon Council Meeting last week. City Manager Jack Baisden, was relieved of this duty.

Since this is Irrigon's first full-time police officer no policy covering his operations had been adopted. The policy is to be worked out between the officer and the commissioner. Work policy for other employees was also discussed.

Alice Bartlett of Heppner presented a resolution to the council, for inclusion of the City of Irrigon in the proposed Morrow County Health District. After lengthy discussion the resolution was rejected. The action will exclude the city from the proposed district, if formed. Taxes for supporting the district will not be levied within the city. Likewise voters residing in the city will not have a voice in administration of the district.

A hearing on annexation of property for the proposed new Junior High School was conducted. No objections were voiced and an ordinance was adopted for the land that lies South of California Ave. and West of Division St.

A plot of the Jewell Subdivision was presented by Carl Riley showing lot lines and water lines. The plot was accepted by the council.

Council members whose terms expire Dec. 31 include, Dorothy Irish, Rod Collins, Bill Cooley. Petitions and declaration forms are available at the city office.

City manager Jack Baisden was out of town on business so was absent from the council session.
