

Sheep graze on late crop of turnips seeded into harvested wheatland on Morrow County's Far West Farms. The turnip crop ripens after wheat has been harvested from irrigated land, producing hundreds of pounds of valuable mutton per acre from land that would ordinarily lie dormant. The turnips were seeded by airplane. Sheep quickly learn to dig the savory roots from the ground.

Extension Service to hold Christmas Potpourri

Christmas is coming! Even though summer is barely over it's not too early to start thinking about making holiday decorations and gifts.

To help homemakers learn how to make a wide variety of gifts and household decorations, the Umatilla-Morrow County Extension Service has planned a two-day Christmas Potpourri. Demonstrations and exhibits will be presented by local homemakers. In charge of the big event is the Two-County Home Extension Program Development Committee, under the chairmanship of Jean Ecklund, Pendleton. Extension Home Economists Molly Saul and Debbie Lee, and Program Assistant Birdine Tullis are coordinating the event. The Oregon Wheat Commission is cooperating.

The first Christmas Potpourri will be Wednesday, Oct. 11, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. at the Christmas Mansion, 107 Hospital Drive, Pendleton. This home is directly across from Eastern Oregon Hospital and Training Center. Parking will be available both at the house and on the hospital grounds.

The second Christmas Potpourri will be Thursday, Oct. 12, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the 4-H Annex, Morrow County Fairgrounds, Heppner.

Some of the demonstrations will include gifts from the kitchen, gifts children can make, gifts for children, house and tree decorating, dried arrangements, gifts to be sewn from kits, clothing gifts, candies, food items from around the world, homemade bath salts and other cosmetics, and many more.

Many demonstrators will be on hand to explain their handiwork to those passing by. The two events will be set up much like a fair, with continuous demonstrations going on. With this type of organization, everyone should be able to see every demonstration, rather than having to make a selection.

Some of the demonstrators will be: Francine Evans, Irrigon, wheat weaving and wheat treats from the kitchen; Rachel Reeder, Helix, Christmas candies; Elizabeth Shaw, Hermiston, Christmas decorations; Ruth Fletcher, Ukiah, pine needle baskets; Juanita Ryan, Irrigon, homemade cosmetics; Judy Bertsch, Stanfield, duster dolls; Nancy Kessler, Milton-Freewater, gifts children can make; Pendleton Sew and Sew, gifts from kits; Debbie Lee, machine embroidery; Colleen Burns, Milton-Freewater, stuffed toys for children; Yvonne St. Denis, Irrigon, velvet roses; Birdine Tullis, Heppner, Christmas wreaths; and many more.

Recipe, pattern and instruction sheets will be distributed. All interested persons are invited, and there is no charge.

This particular student a great deal of money.

Graduates of the program are not forgotten. An extended program is available to them allowing the participants to continue coming to monthly meetings indefinitely. "They are welcome to continue as long as they want to,"

Giacomini said.

"I'm proud of the fact that the program costs local taxpayers very little directly. The level of enrollment is high enough that tuition and state reimbursement help pay almost entirely for the program, the management director noted.
