

4-H recruiting drive still in full swing in Morrow

4-H RECRUITMENT STILL UNDERWAY

If your youngsters have been wanting to learn about 4-H opportunities, they will hear all about it at schools in both Ione and Heppner next week. John and Birdine will be taking their 4-H story to the students, and offering them the opportunity to choose from a wide number of projects available in the county. Any parent wishing to hear the presentation would be welcome to attend an assembly at Heppner Elementary on Nov. 15, 10:30 a.m. or at Ione Elementary Nov. 21, 9:30 a.m. Any boy or girl indicating interest at that time will be contacted immediately following with information on a club to meet their interest.

HELPS FOR THE LUCKY HUNTER

Driving home from Baker the night before hunting season opened made me wonder if all of western

Venison", "Boning Out Your Deer"—all are helpful to both the novice and the experienced hunter-cook. Another good one (almost a collector's item) is "Ye Old Home

NEW ASSISTANT DIRECTOR FOR HOME ECONOMICS

Pat Coolican has recently joined the OSU Extension Service as Assistant Director of Home Economics. Before coming to Oregon, she served as Director of the Extension family living program in West Virginia. She had previously spent nineteen years as a county extension agent in Virginia, as well as three years as an Extension specialist at Cornell University. She replaces Ann Litchfield with the OSU Extension staff. We'll look forward to seeing her in our county as she travels around getting better acquainted with needs of Oregonians.

WOOL STYLE SHOW

Remember the Make It Yourself with Wool District Contest will be held in Heppner again this year. Girls from several Eastern Oregon counties will be competing Nov. 18 at the Catholic Parish Hall to represent this district at the state contest. Many of our 4-H girls participate in the contest, which offers lovely prizes locally, as well as state and national awards. A full day is in store for those participating, including a no-host luncheon for the girls at the Parish Hall. Carlene West serves with Dorris Doherty as codirectors of the contest, which is sponsored by the Wool Growers Auxiliary. We like to see a good audience when the girls model their lovely woolen garments for the public. The style show immediately following the luncheon is open to all interested. "THE ARTIFACTORY" Do you have Dec. 2 circled as a red letter day? That's the date of the local arts and crafts show-sale called "The Artifactory." Local artists and crafts people offer their hand made products for sale as well as exhibit. It is a chance to see what the very creative people in our county are doing, as well as a time to pick up one of a kind items for gift giving. The artifactory is sponsored by the local AAUW, and is a very real community project. For those wishing more information on exhibiting or selling, the co-chairmen of the event this year are Monica Swanson and Pat Edmundson.

There will be demonstrations again this year, so watch for more information as the date draws near.

Extension Events... By Birdine Tullis

Oregon was migrating over to the east side for elk season. It also reminded me that Extension has many recipes and bulletins on hand which offer a variety of ways to utilize the game. Ask for a copy of "Game Foods" "Treats with Sausage" by Gus Margraf, Baker County Extension Agent. This bulletin offers many recipes and hints on using game foods in ways that Gus tested and approved. All Extension bulletins are available free.
