

Bank of E.O. aiding CARE in Food Crusade drive

The Bank of Eastern Oregon in Heppner is assisting CARE, international aid agency, as one of many Northwest businesses aiding in the annual Food Crusade drive sponsored this holiday season to raise part of the national goal of $6.5 million to help provide nourishing food to aid 25 million impoverished people, mostly children.

Distribution of CARE materials will also be made by the bank's branches in Ione and Arlington as part of the activities throughout the region. CARE puts special stress on the Crusade, as 1979 has been designated by the United Nations as International Year of the Child, according to CARE's regional office in Seattle.

CARE also reports that it has provided at least $9.93 in aid and services for each $1 donated last year, by combining U.S. Food-for-Peace commodities, host government contributions and donations of labor, land and available materials, from the people being aided.

For more than 30 years, CARE has put needs of children in the forefront of its programming, Frank L. Goffo, CARE's executive director, stresses in the headquarters' announcement, noting that CARE will continue to direct its efforts to improving the quality of life for children and their families, particularly those in dire need. By helping to free children from disease-prone, marginal existence, CARE feeding programs and related development projects provide a lifeline for millions today and give them a chance for a better tomorrow.

Contributions may be sent to CARE Food Crusade, Bank of Eastern Oregon, Heppner, 97836, or CARE, Box 310, Seattle, 98111.

For low income

Adult training program starts

An adult training program, which can provide funding for up to two years of classroom instruction and six months of on-the-job training, is available to eligible Morrow County residents.

The program is centered around low-income adults. Federal poverty guidelines are used in determining whether or not an applicant is eligible for the training. Eligible Morrow County residents would be able to receive training for nearly "anything a person would like to do or has an aptitude for," said Jane Stackhouse of the East Central Oregon Association of Counties, who is the program's area administrator. Persons in Umatilla County who have qualified for the program have received training and found jobs in such fields as drafting, paralegal work and electric motor rewinding.

Applicants are also being sought for another ECOAC administered program which places persons over 54 in paying jobs with local non-profit agencies.

Further information may be obtained by calling toll-free 1-800-452-8112. Interviews and applications can be set up through the phone call.

Poison care training held at Pioneer Memorial Hospital

A two-hour training program on Care of the Poisoned Patient was presented at Pioneer Memorial Hospital on Nov. 1 to both the day and night-shift personnel.

This program was one of a series being presented by the Council for Medical Education and Development (CoMED) which is sponsored by 11 hospitals in Eastern Oregon.

Doctors also contribute donations to the consortium which has as its purpose improving medical services through continuing education of health care providers.

Future programs will include alcoholism, death and dying, care of the disturbed and/or assaultive patient, infection control and intensive care-coronary care.

Some of the programs are presented in each hospital and others may be presented in a central location in each part of the CoMED area, which includes nine counties in Eastern Oregon.

Kinzua news

Barbara Pike 768-2861

Many homes in Kinzua were brightened the last two weekends by the presence of friends and relatives here for the elk hunting season. Hunting was reported to be poor but the pleasure of seeing those we hold so dear more than makes up for that small disappointment.

Paul and Gladys Muzzy enjoyed a week long visit from their son and his family who were here visiting and elk hunting. Lyle, Elva and their children Kevin and Paula, Oakridge, were joined at the Muzzy home Wednesday by his sister, Paulette Peterson, and her daughter Cheryl. Lyle and his family left for home Saturday. Sunday the Petersons returned to their home in Tigard, accompanied by Gladys Muzzy. Gladys will stay with the Petersons until the Thanksgiving holiday when Paul Muzzy will join his wife at their daughter's home.

Jiggs and Rita Bowman again were hosts to a whole household of guests this last weekend. Thursday evening their son and family, Joe and Robin Bowman and their daughters and Leonard Hauke arrived from Portland. Friday morning Rita, Cindy, Robin and her children went to Heppner for medical care. While in Heppner they met Rita's sister, Gloria Clapper, who returned to Kinzua with them. Friday evening the gathering grew with the arrival of Dave and Sara Riney and Vic Bowman, all from Prineville, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Victors, Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Endicott and Robin also from Prineville. Saturday, Ron Bowman, Heppner, joined the group. The out of towners all left for their homes Sunday.

We enjoyed having two of our children and their families with us for three days on opening weekend. Lance and Hollie Van Meter, Clay and Charlotte were here from their home in Nyssa. Chuck and Patti Constantin, Portland, joined us in admiring two month old Charlotte.

Don and Barbara Paullus went to Ontario Thursday to visit their daughter Carrie. The three went to Boise to see relatives. After going back to Ontario to drop Carrie at her home, Don and Barbara went on to LaGrande to join friends attending the Heppner-Elgin play-off game. They stopped in Heppner Saturday to spend the night with Don's parents, Claude and Ethel Paullus.

Don and Rose Hardwick were in John Day Thursday on business.

Sue and Dave Mattison were in The Dalles last Monday on business. Sunday, Sue and daughters Jodi and Robin went to John Day to visit relatives.

phreys of Lexington. Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Max Breeding and family of Gresham, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Taylor of Hood River and Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Humphreys of Lexington.
