

County well represented on State 4-H foundation

Morrow County is fortunate to be represented on the Oregon 4-H Club Foundation Board of trustees by two very interested and capable individuals. Allen Nistad, General Manager, Kinzua Corp., and Louis Carlson, rancher, have accepted positions on the board.

Louis serves as chairman of the Eastern Oregon Development Committee, with Allen as one of his committee members. Allen is also a member of the Center Capital Development Committee. Several members of the 4-H State Advisory Committee serve on foundation committees. Francine Evans is a member of the important funding committee which makes recommendations as to how foundation monies are spent.

The three are our "connections" to the Oregon 4-H Club Foundation. Anyone with ideas or questions relating to the Foundation may contact them. Many Oregon individuals and businesses make donations yearly to the Oregon 4-H Foundation, to be used for a wide variety of 4-H programs throughout the state, as well as the 4-H Center development.

meetings, followed by the Farm-City Banquet at 7 p.m. at the Catholic Parish Hall. A full program is lined up for the banquet, including a very special guest speaker, county agent Arley Isley. While his topic is serious, I would bet he will entertain you, too! Awards of merit will be presented to 4-H and FFA members.

One of the big drawing cards for the banquet is the "precious gem" door prize given each year by Peterson's Jewelers, Heppner. The gem has been a diamond in the past—wouldn't that be a nice Christmas gift?

Special entertainment for the banquet will be a fashion show, courtesy of Cole's House of Fashion, LeBush. Gardner's Men's Wear and Kroll's Department Store, plus a quick look at fashions over the years past. The fashion show was such a hit last year, and is repeated for the enjoyment of everyone...by special request! Of course, everyone is welcome to all events of the day.

members are available at the Extension Office now. They should be filled out and returned to Ext. Office by January 15.

VFW post launches newspaper recycling program

A newspaper recycling drop, sponsored by the Heppner V.F.W. and Auxiliary will open Sunday, Dec. 10 at the home of Darlene Arrington.

Mrs. Arrington's home is located at 280 East Matlock in Heppner and will be open to receive bundled newspapers between the hours of 12-noon and 4 p.m. this Sunday and the first Sunday of each month.

Newspapers only are wanted and the V.F.W. asks that newspapers be kept free of contaminants such as metal objects, wax paper, and aluminum foil. The papers should be bundled or folded and put in grocery bags.

Door-to-door pickup will be provided for senior citizens who have no transportation on Sunday only. For more information contact: Doris Flynn, 676-9259; Welma Mabe, 676-9611; Jean Ball, 676-9666; or Beverly Launer, 676-5290.

Drug abuse, communication between parents and teachers, truancy, and attendance were major concerns voiced by those attending an organizational meeting of Concerned Parents and Teachers Monday evening at Heppner Elementary School.

Chamber outlines lighting contest

Heppner residents and churches are participating in the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Contest—but those interested in having their displays return a coupon that appears in this week's paper.

Displays in the residential division should be on the exterior of the home or in plain view of the street if displayed in a window. Entries will be judged on originality and uniqueness as well as overall attractiveness.

Sumner wins election suit; general election questioned

Deafened District 53 Rep. Jack Sumner last week won his lawsuit charging Democratic rival Chuck Bennett with making false campaign statements. Sumner's victory in Marion County Circuit Court has opened the door to a bid by the Heppner Democrat to invalidate Bennett's primary nomination, possibly

November general election as well. Legal and political observers can only speculate on whether Sumner may be able to retain his seat in the Oregon House of Representatives, since there is no legal precedent for the issue. The matter would likely have to be settled in the Oregon Court of Appeals. Although the Marion County jury ruled in Sumner's favor last week, the Morrow County politician did not receive as sweeping a judgment as he was seeking. Sumner had filed for $10,000 in general damages, and $25,000 in punitive damages from Bennett, who defeated him during the May primary. The jury awarded only $147 in money in punitive damages. According to the Salem Statesman-Journal, the jury deliberated for more than seven hours on 12 statements Bennett was alleged to have made before voting in two of them consulted by the state's election laws. The 11 statements involved Bennett's un-
