Seattle choir performs at Heppner United Methodist

Five male and five female vocalists, their pianist and their director, Rick Drake, came to Heppner's United Methodist Church from Seattle's Boulevard Park Presbyterian Church last Sunday evening for a musical and inspirational performance.

The well-trained youth, who attend high school and college and are employed in the south Seattle vicinity, presented a variety of lively, modern sacred songs along with inspirational testimonials and a series of color slides.

The young people had coordinated the slides, which glorified nature, with recorded poetry readings and their own vocal accompaniment.

After the program Methodist hospitality chairmen Beth Bryant and Vern Batty arranged refreshments and sociability in the church basement. Rick's grandmother, Emma Drake, requested him to sing a favorite hymn for her. Accompanied on the piano by his sister-in-law

Carley, he sang "How Great Thou Art."

The twelve traveling performers were Sunday supper, overnight and Monday breakfast guests in Heppner homes. They left for Seattle just after 8 a.m. Monday.

Lexington Church of Christ to sponsor karate demonstration

The Lexington Church of Christ will sponsor a karate demonstration and revival "with a kick" March 2-4, according to Truman Messenger.

The demonstration and revival will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 2, 3, 4 at 7:30 p.m. in the Heppner Elementary gymnasium. There is no charge for admission, however, a free-will offering will be taken.

Vance Steele, a 2nd degree black belt in karate, will give the demonstration which will be followed by the revival.

United Methodist Women hear talk on Chinese history

The United Methodist Women, who met on Wednesday evening Feb. 7 at the parsonage, and the Bookworms, who met for the first time in 1979 on Feb. 13 at Florence Green's home, were given a review of Chinese history by Justine Weatherford.

High points in the 4,000 year history of the world's oldest, continuous civilization covered the ancient dynasties, the struggles for territorial expansion and for a strong central government, the historic difficulties that China has had with other countries and a little about China's outstanding religious, military and political leaders.

Facts for the program were gleaned from several sources such as various books and personal visiting in Taiwan and Hong Kong.

Next month Louise Wood will tell the Methodist women about China today. The Bookworms will have their second February meeting on Feb. 27 at Marion Abram's home where Frances P. Mitchell will present the book review.

Senior Citizen News

By Justine Weatherford

Because of the water-pollution situation in Heppner no senior meals were served here or in Ione last week or this week. It is not certain if the meals will be held at the two mealsites next week, however we are including the tentative menus at the close of this article.

On Tuesday, Feb. 13, the Area Agency of Ageing Advisory Council of the East Central Oregon Association of Counties met in Heppner in the Columbia Basin Electric Board Room from 10 a.m. until 12 noon and from 1:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m.

Before adjourning it was determined that the next AAA bimonthly meeting will be held in Arlington at 10 a.m. on April 17.

Chairman Paul W. Jones presided, Secretary Dolores Dunn, Fossil, read the minutes of the meeting held in John Day in late October. Representatives from the 17 mealsites in the area gave progress reports. All reported better attendance percentage-wise from the seniors in their area than did Heppner and Ione. Some admitted that attendance was temporarily down during the bad weather and flood problems. Most of the sites say they are coming close to being financially supported by those over 60 who come and pay for their meals and enjoy fellowship together.

Ruby Kirk, Weston, and Suzanne Jepsen stated that the Homemakers Program was struggling to stay within its budget because of additional accidents to seniors during the bad weather. They pointed out the big savings in state welfare costs that this program offers by keeping seniors out of nursing homes.

Meals scheduled for next week, Feb. 26 through 28, will feature the following menus. It is hoped that by that time Heppner's water will no longer hold up the dinners.

Members of the area AAA budget committee and area director Rollin Reynolds presented a tentative budget which was approved as presented for a six month period. Director Reynolds stressed that the populated areas of Western Oregon dominate the funding in the state and that Eastern Oregon will suffer because funds are based 95 per cent on population and only 5 per cent on land area. The ECOAC has the most mealsites of any area (17) and by far the most travel requirements.

The Area Nutrition Council which met during the morning session reported that cost-cutting measures were being considered at various mealsites. It was pointed out that volunteers who help at the sites gain income tax credit

At Irregon on February 26, hot dinner sandwiches with mashed potatoes and gravy, buttered carrots, fruit salad, oranges, apples and bananas, and lemon pudding.

At Heppner on Feb. 27, that same menu will be served. On Wednesday Feb. 28 in Ione and Heppner, tomato juice, corned beef and noodles, apple, pineapple and cabbage salad, green beans, cornbread and butter and deep-dish cherry pie with topping.

THE SPIDER

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."
