Court seeks disaster status for County

Hard road to go

State highway, county road, city street and private driveway have all been severely damaged by the recent flood and flooding. The erosion of Highway 101 is the most severe. The road is now a deep channel in the earth. Morrow County has been hit by the worst flood in its history.

The Morrow County Court is seeking the status of Oregon as a disaster area. The court is asking the state to declare the county a disaster area so that federal disaster relief money can be used to help pay for the damage done to the county's roads, bridges, and buildings.
