

Hear and Their

By Eva Hamlett

The women of the United Church of Christ have finished the quilt they were working on.

It is on display in the church basement. The quilt depicts familiar scenes around Ione and has been called the Remembrance quilt. Anyone interested in quilting or learning to quilt is invited to work on it at anytime. Individuals or groups wishing to work are asked to call Katherine Lindstrom or Lucille Rietmann, and they will see that the heat is turned on in the basement. The quilt is to be auctioned off at the UCC barbeque on June 2.

Ida Coleman returned last week from a trip to California, Arizona and Nevada with Jean and Pete Crawford of Portland. Some of the places of interest they visited were Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, Hoover Dam, and Las Vegas. They visited with Patti Crawford in Phoenix, Ariz.

Roy and Katherine Lindstrom spent last week in Tacoma, Wash. visiting their daughter, Christina.

Need a parking meter? Now's your chance!

Anyone in the market for a used parking meter?

Heppner City Council voted Monday to put the meters up for bid, in order to clear space the no-armed bandits are taking up in a city hall storage room. Also to be placed on the auction block are a wide assortment of worn city water meters.

In other developments, the council voted to enter into a contract with the Portland engineering firm of Barrett and Associates, pending the receipt of a federal grant for a study of Heppner's sewer plant problems. Water and Sewer Committee chairman Cliff Green said the prospects appear good that Heppner will receive funding for the study—the first step towards revamping the city's worn and outdated treatment plant.

The study is expected to cost $26,500—75 per cent of which will be paid by the Environmental Protection Agency on completion of the grant.

Mayor Jerry Sweeney noted that this year's unseasonably severe winter left many of the city's sidewalks in a state of disrepair. "The holes in the sidewalk are the property owners' responsibility to fix," he stated.

Clinic set for storytellers

A clinic to enhance storytelling skills—for parents, Sunday school teachers, and others—will be held today, March 29, at the Heppner Public Library.

The storytelling workshop will be held in two sessions, the first running from 10 a.m. to noon, and the second from 1 to 3 p.m. Darlene Dailey will conduct the sessions.

Senior Citizen News

by Alma Anderson

The craft ladies, who fashion hand-made items on Thursday afternoons at the Neighborhood Center in Heppner, have been working with a very old idea the last few months. They have been making "ojos de Dios" (eyes of God) decorations. Patterns for these decorations were found in Egyptian tombs. The designs have been very popular in Central and South America, Mexico and in the American Southwest, and have been gaining popularity in this area rather recently.

Each of the unusually attractive, four or five colored yarn designs that the ladies have made carries a small typed label stating: "May the eyes of God be on you, and bring peace, plenty and happiness to your household."

The carefully crafted Heppner work is priced at between four and ten dollars, depending on the size. The public is encouraged to stop at the Center and see these "eyes of God," as well as other craft items for the home or for gifts—such as slipper sox, macrame plant hangers, and mushroom-decorated yardstick hangers. The items are on sale at very reasonable prices.

Don't forget, the Social Security man will be here Friday of next week.

Menus for the next week include: at Irrigon, Monday, April 9, Easter dinner of oven-fried chicken, cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, sweet potatoes, buttered peas, applesauce, hot rolls and jelly and ugly duckling cake.

At Heppner, Tuesday, April 10: Tomato juice, macaroni and cheese medley, seasoned green beans, cabbage souffle salad, muffins and jelly, cherry cobbler.

At Ione and Heppner on Wednesday, April 11: The same Easter dinner menu that was served at Irrigon, as listed above.
