Fashion show planned at local restaurant

Two fashion shops in downtown Heppner and the West of Willow Restaurant are cooperating in presenting a "first" for the community—a fashion show under commercial sponsorship, at the restaurant on the evening of Oct. 23.

The fashion show is being arranged by Carolyn Cole of Cole's House of Fashion and Doris Robarge of Doris LaRae's.

The affair will be staged between 8 and 9 p.m. Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served. Advance reservations will be required.

With the theme, "Your Look for Fall," the presentation will offer the current apparel lines at the two fashion stores as well as from the Shoe Box, Peterson's Jewelry, and Kroll's Department Stores, which are co-sponsors.

Jim Rogers, owner of the West of Willow, is coordinator for the affair.

Five models have been selected, one of them being Jackie Bergstrom, who lives at Gooseberry, about 20 miles from Heppner off the Heppner-Condon highway. She is the wife of Rudy Bergstrom, a wheat and cattle rancher. Mrs. Bergstrom visited Doris LaRae's last Saturday for a preview of the styles she will present.

One dress she tried on was of Chinese terry, by Candi Jones, in a junior size. She also modeled briefly in a pongee knit sweater, by Railroad Station, and gabardine pants, by Pulse.

Other models and styles will be announced prior to the show.

Senior Citizen News

The Thursday afternoon craft sessions at the Heppner Neighborhood Center are getting busier again as colder weather approaches. Pat Brindle reminds all ladies that they are most welcome.

The craft materials used are purchased with the funds that are realized from the sale of the finished articles. Along with an assortment of articles made during the year, the cheerful Christmas items, such as wall hangings and ornaments, need to be ready to sell at the Dec. 1 sale.

Pat explains that the group is now working on craft articles for the annual first Saturday in December Art-factory Sale which is only eight weeks away. Usually about 10 or 12 ladies gather to chat and create decorative and useful items under instruction from skilled leaders. The ladies of the Christian Life Center are bringing refreshments for each Thursday afternoon in October. This group is a good place for new residents to come get acquainted.

The Senior Dinner menus for next week are: at Heppner Oct. 9, Swedish meatball, buttered noodles, almond Mandarin vegetables, lettuce wedges with sliced tomatoes, muffins and jelly and rhubarb cake with topping.

At Ione and Heppner Oct. 10, apple juice, Swiss steak with mushroom gravy, mashed potatoes, green beans, cranberry-apple molded salad, biscuits and jelly and gingerbread with lemon sauce.

Irrigon news

Francis Rose Wilson • 922-3352

4-H Family Fun Night will be held with a potluck dinner Oct. 11, starting at 6:30 p.m. at the A.C. Houghton School. It will be in conjunction with "sign up" for members and new members. The starting age for 4-H is the fourth grade. Parents are encouraged to come.

Achievement pins will be given to all members who have completed their 4-H project. It is necessary for members to be present to receive their pins. County awards will be presented to those who have excelled in their club work.

Parents are requested to bring a salad and or dessert. Meat, potatoes, rolls and a drink will be furnished by 4-H leaders. This announcement was made by North Morrow 4-H Leaders President Lois Richards. The 4-H leaders met at the home of Vern and Francine Evans Sept. 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren McCoy and Debbie have returned from New Orleans, where they attended the National Veterans of Foreign Wars conference. Mrs. McCoy is the junior vice president of the Oregon Department of V.F.W. and McCoy served on the national rules and by-laws committee.

Mrs. McCoy stated that New Orleans was a historical city and they enjoyed touring the city as well as some of the plantations. They visited a 180-year-old church that was well cared for and had many paintings of the disciples and other biblical scenes.

They also made an eight-hour trip up the Mississippi River and bayous. The weather was bad and stormy most of the time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Irvin of Irrigon hosted a surprise birthday party for Flossie Breeding at their home Sept. 23. There were 28 guests who gathered to wish her well.

Her brother Lee Vinson traveled the farthest, coming from Danville, Calif. Also there were brothers L.D. Vinson from Monument and Darrel Vinson from Heppner. Her sister Elba Anderson of Hermiston as well as many grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren and friends gathered for the happy occasion.

The Irrigon Assembly of God met for a short service in the new church building at the close of the Sunday morning service. While there is still some work to be done on the building, such as installing insulation, the carpet and pews and other furniture were installed during the last week.

Other activities included a roller skating party on Wednesday evening, sponsored by the Royal Rangers and Missionettes. About 41 boys and girls and adult counselors attended.
