

Planning for the fashion show are (L-R) Doris LaRae Robarge, Carolyn Cole and Jim Rogers.

Fashion show planned for Tuesday

"Your Look for Fall" is the theme for the fashion show scheduled for this Tuesday, Oct. 23, at 8 p.m. in the West of Willow Restaurant.

The fashion show is being put on by Cole's House of Fashion and Doris LaRae's in Heppner in conjunction with the West of Willow Restaurant.

Kinzua shifts responsibilities

Kinzua Corporation of Heppner has announced a shift of executive responsibilities that gives Allen Nistad, former general manager of the company here, the title of vice-president, timberlands and corporate relations.

The appointments were by the Kinzua board of directors meeting in Seattle, with the announcement released by Nistad last Thursday.

The new general manager is Harry Kennison, former operations manager, who also will have overall responsibility for sales.

Kennison said the company's sales office in Portland will be closed. Kent Goodyear, former assistant sales manager, will become sales manager here.

Closure of the Portland office was described by Kennison as "an economic move—we'll have better control by consolidating our activities here."

Tickets are on sale at all three businesses for $3 per person. Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served.

Fashions to be modeled will come from Doris LaRae's and Cole's House of Fashion. The Shoe Box will supply the shoes for the models and Petersons will supply the jewelry.

The models for the show are Linda Gifford, Mary Kennison, Ronda Quigley, Jackie Berstrom and Inez Erwin. The women models were chosen by the organizers of the event because they wear a variety of dress sizes and are of varying ages so women of all types will be able to see the new fall fashions.

Carolyn Cole said Monday that about half of the tickets that have been sold for the show.

"The fashion show is to be informative on what we have for fall and is not just to sell," Cole said. "We want to show the new look in fall fashions."

Drawings will be held throughout the fashion show for donated door prize gift certificates which have been donated by Donna's Beauty Shop, Lois' Beauty Shop, Trish's Beauty Shop and the Country Shears.

Boardman rejected as sight of giant windmill turbines

Local environmentalists and anti-nuclear people were dealt a blow late last week when the U.S. Department of Energy chose not to install four of the world's largest power generating windmills in Boardman.

The windmills will be built by the Boeing Co. instead near Goldendale, Wash. The four huge experimental wind turbines will be used to test the ability of windmills to produce electricity.

The reason the Goldendale area was chosen over the Boardman area is because the wind there averages about four miles-per-hour stronger.

Boeing is under a $25 million contract with the Federal Energy Department and the windmills will be operated by the Bonneville Power Administration.

Portland General Electric was hoping to put the 350-foot high machines near Boardman but its bid was turned down. The electricity from the giant windmills will supply power to about 450 homes in Goldendale.

Five members of the Oregon congressional delegation were pushing for the windmills to be built in Boardman. Oregon Congressmen Les AuCoin, Bob Duncan and Jim Weaver and Senator Mark Hatfield and Congressman Al Ullman were all behind the project and a representative from Ullman's office said the four miles-per-hour velocity difference was the deciding factor.

Parents invited to open house

Parents are invited to a "back to school" open house at the Heppner Elementary School, from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 24, said Don Cole, principal.

In a brief opening program, the teachers will be introduced. Then they will go to their respective rooms to meet the parents and other interested persons.

"It will be a more informal situation than the parent-teacher conferences to be held in November," Cole said. Refreshments will be served.

Electric meeting planned

The 35th Annual Cooperative Membership Meeting of the Columbia Basin Electric Co. will be held in Condon Nov. 7.

The meeting will be at the Elks Temple with registration beginning at 11 a.m.

Lunch will be served at noon and the regular business meeting will follow at 1:15. The meeting is for the purpose of electing three directors for a three-year term and to discuss with the cooperative membership various items of interest which relate to the operation of Columbia Basin Electric.

Running for re-election from Condon will be Van

Rietmann. Tim Marick is his challenger.

The incumbent director from Cecil, Dick Krebs, will be up against Eric Anderson. Steve Connlee will challenge Herb Wright for the directorship from Fossil.

The proposed Bonneville Power Administration rate increase and the Cooperative's current cost-of-service study will be explained, and this will be an excellent opportunity to ask questions and become better informed about these and other matters.

The Annual Meeting is open to all Cooperative members and their families.

Criminal trial settled civilly

The trial for Ronald and Sandra Bereit was not held Monday in Heppner because the case was settled out of court, according to District Attorney, Dennis Doherty.

Ronald Bereit is a councilman in Boardman.

The Bereits had been charged with second degree criminal trespassing, second degree burglary, third degree criminal mischief and second degree theft. They were charged with taking office files without authorization last Feb. 24 at the Portland General Electric housing complex where Sandra Bereit was the manager.

The Bereits pleaded innocent in circuit court Aug. 28 and the trial was set for Oct. 15.

But on Oct. 11, in the case State vs. Bereit, the defense filed a motion to dismiss because it was acknowledged that a civil compromise had been made between the defendant, the Bereits and the Transworld Leasing Corp.

District Attorney Dennis Doherty opposed the dismissal but Judge Jack Olson, the circuit court judge from Pendleton, ruled that by statute, some crimes may be compromised in a civil way. This means that the injured party said in writing that they had received satisfaction for the injury. The court then had the right, at its discretion, to order the criminal charges to be dismissed.

Judge Olson ruled that the Bereits had made civil restitution to the Transworld Leasing Corp. and therefore the criminal charges could be dropped. The motion to dismiss was allowed by the court and the trial was cancelled. The approval of the dismissal by Doherty was not required.

The defense will pay the costs and expenses of the proceedings.

Storyteller art described

Pat Freehan, the children's state librarian, will be at the Heppner Library tonight from 7 to 9:30 to give a workshop on the art of story telling, finger plays and possibly puppetry.

All interested persons are invited to come to the workshop but special invitations have been extended to the Ione and Heppner school faculty, Sunday school teachers and mothers who participate in the Heppner Library storyhour.

The Heppner Parents Group will provide cookies and coffee for the participants.

County medical center opens in Boardman

The North Morrow County Medical Center opened its doors Monday in Boardman with the city getting its first doctor.

Dr. J.R. Anderson, Doctor of Osteopathic, is in charge of the medical facilities at the center. His wife, Christie, is the registered nurse.

Anderson is new to the Boardman area. He comes to the town from Wilton, Iowa. The Andersons have three children.

Dr. Anderson went to the College of Osteopathic Medicine in Kirksville, Miss. He was graduated from the college in 1977.

The North Morrow County

Medical Center opened Oct. 15 and is located at 203 Kinkaid S.W. in Boardman. Anderson is open for family practice and the phone number is 481-7212. Patients are seen by appointment only.

The office is open from 9-11 a.m. Monday through Wednesday and from 1-5 and 6-8 p.m. Thursdays. Fridays, the center is open from 9-12 in the morning.

The North Morrow County Medical Center is partially private and partially county because it is funded in part by taxes in connection with Pioneer Memorial Hospital in Heppner.
