A research paper written several years ago and a continuing interest in the small 13-square mile island of Norfolk were culminated last month when Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Williams, Morrow County retired teachers, were able to spend a few days at this lovely spot.

This small island, lovely to see and steeped in history, is 600 miles north of New Zealand and was reached by a trip taking them to Portland by Amtrak, then on via plane to their destination. Due to a plane cancellation, their schedule was always a few hours late, which kept them on their toes and ready to go. They flew from Portland to Hawaii then on to Sydney, Australia, and off to Norfolk. The island has been twice a prison island, for England and Australia. The last few years it has become quite commercialized. On the trip they spent one night in Hawaii, with time spent in some sight-seeing. On the return trip, more time was allowed for Sydney, Australia. They found this an interesting place with much history to be learned. They visited the famous zoo there and the opera house.

Holly Rebekah met on Thursday at their hall for the regular meeting and an election of officers. Elected Noble Grand was Virginia Peck; Vice Grand, Joyce Buchanan; Secretary Delpha Jones; Treasurer, Dorothy Burcham and three-year trustee, Leila Palmer. Plans were made for a tasting dessert luncheon and card party on Saturday, Nov. 17. This will start at 1 p.m. and will be 25 cents a taste and will offer a variety of desserts. There will be a card party for the afternoon and during this time there will be a food sale and bazaar. Prizes will be given at the card party and the admission will be $1. Money taken in at the lodge activities are used to finance the building, such as the monthly bills, so that it may continue as a community hall. Anyone who would like to join is invited to share in lodge activities. The bazaar will consist of aprons, pillow cases and other items, including some stuffed toys, etc. A potluck Thanksgiving dinner for members and invited friends is being planned for the Nov. 15 Thanksgiving meeting.

Eula Bloodsworth who has been ill and in the hospital in Walla Walla was home over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buchanan have returned to their home in Lexington after his open-heart surgery at St. Vincent's hospital in Portland. Mrs. Buchanan was called back to Portland on Tuesday last week by the death of her step-father. They returned to Portland one day this week for School staff to observe their 'week'

Classified School Employee Week, set for the current week, Nov. 5 through 9 by proclamation of Gov. Victor G. Atiyeh, is being celebrated by Chapter No. 59 of the Oregon School Employees Association (OSEA) in Morrow County.

Special plans for the local chapter includes a membership drive according to President Betty Christman.

OSEA is a statewide organization of classified school employees with a membership of over 9,000 and representing more than 17,000 employees. There are 143 chapters statewide and the association provides numerous benefits including insurance, legal counsel and resources and negotiations assistance.

More information may be obtained by calling Betty Christman at 989-8534.

a check up for Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Jones were Portland callers last week, by the death of a cousin Buster Cavin. Memorial services were held at Warren on Tuesday. They visited their daughter Charlene Whitney and family while there.

Helen Krueger has been a patient in Pioneer Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yocom were Salem callers last weekend, bringing a daughter and children home with them. Mrs. Debbie Jones and two girls will remain for a while at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burcham have returned to their home after some time with a son Mike and wife in Pendleton. Mr. and Mrs. Burcham were Walla Walla business visitors on Wednesday of this week.

There are many delightful surprises at the local grocery store "Del's Market" lately. There are new food counters, cold storage, freezers and interesting decor. At long last a delightful surprise, a new cash register. If you haven't been in to see and browse around it might be fun. Good luck Phyllis and Delbert on this new project.

Art fair tables available

Tables are still available for the American Association of University Women (AAUW) Artifactory planned for Dec. 1. Since the Artifactory work started eight years ago, it has become one of the favorite shopping places for people to purchase Christmas presents. Many unusual articles are on display and for sale each year. It is sponsored by the AAUW and this year it is being held in conjunction with the Heppner Garden Club Greens Workshop at the Fairgrounds.

Reservations have already been made to display such crafts as wheat weaving, mirror plaques and corn husk dolls. Individuals and groups are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to make some Christmas money for themselves as well as to bring their talents and skills to the public. Tables are only $3 for the day.

Reservations for tables may be made by calling Joy Krein at 676-9956 or Laura Broderick at 989-8421.

A special section of the Artifactory is devoted to a book sale and boxes for collection of books will be put out next week in Ione and Heppner.

Film views question of life after death

"If I Should Die," a motion picture that addresses the question of life after death, will be shown Sunday at 7:45 p.m. at the Heppner Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. James J. King, pastor, said the film will touch on the true after-death experiences of people now living.

"Did they really have a vision of the future or were they hallucinations? This new

Heppner man joins Air Force

Kenneth Beal, of Rt. 2 Box 2406 in Heppner enlisted in the U.S. Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program, according to TSgt Spike Adams, Air Force recruiter.

Beal, a 1971 graduate of Riverside High School, is scheduled for enlistment in the regular Air Force March 6, 1980. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course, he is scheduled to receive technical training as a flight facilities repairman.

He will be earning credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the community college of the Air Force while attending basic and other Air Force technical training schools.

movie will try to give an answer," King said. "There is no preaching in the film and it is nonjudgmental. The film is to be shown for what it is—for no one is immune to the sting of death, its grief and sorrow."

The film, to be shown under auspices of the Heppner Ministerial Association, will follow the 7 p.m. "Singspiration" at the church. Coffee and doughnuts will be served directly after "Singspiration."

King said a private showing of "If I Should Die" will be arranged Monday afternoon for those desiring to see the film.

2 to lead special services

A couple who have had a ministry spanning 42 years in five states will conduct an evangelical mission next week at the Heppner Church of the Nazarene.

They are the Rev. Ray Kellom and his wife Alma who will conduct services from Nov. 12 through Nov. 18 nightly at 7 p.m.

In addition to helping her husband, Alma Kellom has been a speaker for children's groups and in summer camps. There will be special music. The public is invited.

PGE ENERGY UPDATE

Average Payment Plan Eliminates Major Fluctuations

PGE is making available to its residential customers a new "average pay plan" which smooths out the seasonal fluctuations of electric bills and distributes the payments more evenly throughout the year. Under the plan, monthly payments are determined by taking an average of the current and last 11 billings, plus 10 percent of any balance carried forward. You will find that it will help the family budget, too. If this method of paying your electric bill appeals to you, drop in or call the PGE office nearest you and learn the details. For those PGE customers who have been using the now replaced Average Pay Plan, they will be transferred automatically to the new plan unless they tell us they don't want to be.

Hair Dryer Can Help To Detect Air Leaks

A hand-held hair dryer can help you spot areas around doors that are leaking air. Have someone inside the house follow your path of blown-in air and have your helper chalk the spots where the air is coming in. Once the leaks are detected, use one of any number of weatherstripping materials that are available. The easiest and quickest to use is a foam rubber strip with self-sticking backing. You just open the door and clean the jamb at the leak points. Then peel off the foam backing and press on the strips. Use the hair dryer technique again to check your efforts.

November "How To" TV Shows Listed for Energy Savers

A half hour—10:00 to 10:30 a.m.—spent with Mr. Conservation, Pete Prlain, on Saturday mornings on Channel 12, KPTV can pay off in dollar and energy savings. On November 10, Pete will demonstrate caulking and weatherstripping; on November 17, he takes an inside look at insulating walls; and on November 24, his audience will learn how to insulate basements and crawl space walls. Tune in, and save.

PGE Expands Program To Weatherize Customers' Electrically Heated Homes

Now, do-it-yourselfers as well as owners of electrically heated mobile homes, houseboats and multiple family dwellings are included in PGE's weatherization program. Previously, only owners of single family electrically heated residential dwellings were eligible for the low-interest or deferred payment weatherization. For those PGE customers who are interested in having their homes weatherized under this plan, we ask that they be patient. We should be able to inspect homes in less than a month after a request is made, but contractors are experiencing shortages of aluminum and there will be some delay in their being able to make and install storm doors and windows.

Boardman Coal-Fired Plant 75 Percent Completed

A workforce of 1,200, employed by 17 contractors, have PGE's Boardman coal-fired generating plant on schedule. The project, located in north central Oregon, is 75 percent completed and is due to go on line in September of next year. The plant will be the first electric generating plant in Oregon to use coal as fuel. When on line, it will produce 530,000 kilowatts which is more than Bonneville dam and about half the capacity of the Trojan nuclear plant.

Prune with Prudence

Fall, when the sap slows down and the limbs are beginning to shed their leaves, is a fine time for pruning and trimming. But a word of caution—prune with prudence. Never use metal-handled tools when pruning trees near power lines. And use a wooden ladder to reach the high places, preferably with a helper steadying your perch. It's good also to plan the fall of the pruned-off limbs. Better safe than sorry.
