

Ione woman gets post

Suzanne Lieuallen Jepsen, Keck Canyon Road in Heppner, has been named to fill a consumer position on the new Rural Health Coordinating Council.

The appointment was made by Oregon Governor Vic Atiyeh and the term is for two years.

The 1979 Oregon Legislature passed House Bill 2735, which started the Oregon Rural Health Act. This act created the State Office of Rural Health in the State Health Planning and Development Agency and a 14-member Rural Health Coordinating Council, which will act in an advisory capacity to the office. Principal purpose of the act is to assist rural communities in the development of their health care systems as well as coordination of statewide efforts affecting health care in rural areas.

Twelve of the council's 14 members have been appointed by the associations and agencies which are specified by the legislation.

Jepsen is Homemaker Supervisor for Oregon Project Independence for Tomorrow, Wheeler and Gilliam Counties.

Heppner man fails to claim refund

The name of Greg A. Griffiths of Heppner appears on the list of unclaimed 1978 federal income tax refunds, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Ralph B. Short, IRS district director for Oregon, said over $200,000 in refunds have not been claimed by their owners. Approximately 900 checks have been undelivered for a lack of forwarding addresses.

"Camelot" auditions scheduled

Auditions for "Camelot", a musical production by the music department at Blue Mountain Community College, will be held Monday and Tuesday nights, Nov. 19 and 20, at 7 p.m. in the Pioneer Theatre on campus.

About 30 parts are available, according to Dave Miller, the college vocal music instructor and director of the show. Jody Noble will act as assistant director. "Camelot" will be staged Jan. 24, 25, 26, 27, 31 and Feb. 1 and 2.

State school chief OK's turkey s

Some 4,000 Norbest turkeys stored in Eugene by the Oregon Department of Education have passed inspection by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and will be released to schools.

Concerned about the possibility of chemical contamination, State School Supt. Verne A. Duncan last month ordered the Norbest turkeys be held in storage until cleared by the USDA.

"All turkeys schools receive through our commodity distribution program have met all appropriate health standards," Duncan said.

Campus offices close for holidays

Facilities at the McCrae Activity Center on the Blue Mountain Community College campus in Pendleton, will be closed during the Thanksgiving holiday Nov. 22 and Nov. 23. All offices on campus will be closed those days also.

Through her job she works in Condon, Arlington, Irrigon, Boardman, Ione, Lexington, Heppner, Fossil, Spray and Mitchell. Her previous work experience includes serving as a medical secretary for physicians in Pendleton and Heppner.

A graduate of Pendleton

High School, she has also studied at Oregon State University. Jepsen has also taken part in continuing education workshops at Blue Mountain Community College in Pendleton, Portland Community College, and through the East Central Oregon Association of Counties.

Other members of the council and their representation include: Mark Murray a pharmacist in Ione, State Board of Pharmacy; Judge Andrew J. Leckie of Fossil, Eastern Oregon Health Systems agency; and John Rohrer from Pendleton, Oregon Association of Hospitals.

About 180 meals were served at the early Thanksgiving-type Ione Cardinal Club Turkey Dinner Sunday at the Ione Legion Hall.

Turkey with home-made salads, rolls and pies was served at the meal. The salads and desserts were donated by many people in the community according to Ione High School Principal Chuck Starr.

A lot of money is expected to be made from the dinner for the Cardinal Club since the prices were $4 for adults, $2.50 for students and 50 cents for children under six-years-old.

The Ione High School rock band performed after the dinner and many customers stayed and danced to the music.

The money will be used to support the Ione High School Scholarship Fund and other related school activities. The Cardinal Club will provide a $250 scholarship to an Ione graduate this year, present a movie at the end of the year, provide candy to everyone at the Christmas program and sponsor a reception after the graduation ceremonies in the spring.
