

Sheriffs' association seeking new members among Oregon's public for better awareness

Morrow County Sheriff Larry Fetsch announced recently that the Oregon State Sheriffs' Association will conduct a membership campaign across the state in the near future.

The broad purpose of this is to increase the awareness of citizens in Oregon in the work, needs and problems of the sheriff and his deputies.

The program is also expected to generate funds for the association which will be used to provide scholarships for a limited number of young people throughout the state. It also will be used to provide for administrative services for the associations and for assistance to widows and children of police officers killed in the line of duty.

The campaign will take the form of a letter from Sheriff Fetsch inviting citizens in Morrow County to become honorary members of the state association. Citizens who join the association will receive membership credentials consisting of a membership card, accident-life insurance policy, and two bumper stickers.

In addition, all members will receive periodic information from the association in a magazine which will stress crime prevention programs in burglary, rape, armed robbery, etc.

Sheriff Fetsch urges everyone to support this membership effort by joining the Oregon Sheriffs' Association.

SECRETARY OF STATE

Sen. Powell in race

State Sen. Jhn Powell, D-Halsey, has filed for the Democratic nomination for Secretary of State.

Powell, a 32-year-old veteran legislator, chaired the Senate Revenue Committee during the 1979 legislative session. His committee handled the $705 million tax relief program and was responsible for adding the state government spending limitation.

In a prepared statement, Powell said, "Only through a standardized accounting procedure can the public and their representatives know how fast government is growing and spending."

"Each agency keeps records in a manner that best fits their needs, instead of in a manner that fits the public's need to know about their government."

Rosalie Huss to oppose Packwood election

Rosalie Huss, Portland Republican activist, has filed as a candidate for U.S. senator. She is the only primary election opponent to incumbent Bob Packwood now.

"I feel that a most critical issue is the defense of our country, and that the people want someone who would vote the way they, themselves would vote," Mrs. Huss said.

"I will be a standard bearer for freedom, justice, the American family, and traditional American moral values."

Mrs. Huss is critical of Packwood's vote "to give the Panama Canal away," his position "in favor of killing babies" (the abortion issue).

Rosalie Huss

his anti-defense votes, and his position-shifting to accommodate big labor.

"Packwood will be spending huge amounts in this campaign to overcome his record and to convince Oregonians that he really represents them," Mrs. Huss said. "Packwood claims that he doesn't rely mainly on special interest groups, yet most of his campaign money comes from out of state, and most of that from special interests."

Packwood has spent his time in organizing his "Potomac connections" instead of working for the people of Oregon, she said.

"I'm not a professional politician," Mrs. Huss said, "but we need someone other than a politician, and I intend to provide Oregonians with a clear choice. As a woman, a mother, and a grandmother, I believe it's time to speak against Packwood's voting record that jeopardizes our country and our families."

Mrs. Huss, 58, and Oregon resident all of her life, has lived since 1963 at 23rd Avenue and Belmont Streets in Portland. A graduate of Albany High School, she attended Northwest Bible Institute in Seattle and was graduated from LIFE College in Los Angeles, a four-year Christian College. Five of her seven children are living, and she has four grandchildren.

She has worked with the Committee for Good Government since 1960. She said that statewide organization "produced the only real effort during the 1964 Goldwater-Miller presidential campaign when the state organization not only failed to participate but hampered efforts." This committee was also responsible for recruiting several thousand new people into the precincts in 1978.

Active in many other campaigns, she was a delegate to the national convention in 1976 when she supported the presidential candidacy of California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Mrs. Huss served two terms as vice-chairman of the Multnomah County Republican Central Committee and has been on the State Central Committee for four terms (eight years) and is currently on the State Executive Committee. She is serving, following election by precinct committee persons, a four-year term as chairman of the Third Congressional District for the Republican Party. That office provides her with the responsibility of conducting the district convention which will name the delegates to the Republican National Convention.

She is the wife of Walter Huss, immediate past state chairman of the Republican Party of Oregon.
