Agricultural seminar scheduled in Umatilla

The Farm and Ranch Executive Seminar III, "Making Agriculture Investment Decision," will explore the use of programmable calculators for analyzing agricultural investments. The seminar is scheduled at the Columbia Inn in Umatilla, Feb. 28-29. The seminar is intended for farm managers and agricultural lenders.

"Programmable calculators are a relatively easy and inexpensive way to bring the latest micro-chip technology to the farm," said Gene Nelson, Oregon State University Extension farm management specialist.

The seminar will focus on how the programmable calculator can be used to help make difficult farm investment decisions. Special attention will be given to land investment.

A registration fee of $100 for each participant covers the cost.

More information as well as a brochure describing the seminar agenda can be obtained from county Extension offices or from Manning Becker, OSU Extension farm management specialist, telephone 754-4484.

Boardman bounds 9%

A preliminary count within the city limits in Boardman shows a population of 1,417 which is nine percent more than the estimate made last year by the Portland State University for Population Research and Census.

As a result of the recount,

City Manager Jim Thompson expects approximately $3,000 more in state revenue for the city. The recount census cost $1,400.

Thompson said he expects a population of about 1,450 when the absentee persons are included in the count.
