BACK FROM WASHINGTON.—Morrow County Commissioner Warren McCoy returned from Washington, D.C., Saturday after spending the week there.

He accompanied five men representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars from Oregon, and Gary Roth of Scappoose, the Oregon winner of the Voice of Democracy speech contest. Roth received an expense-paid trip to the capital to compete in the national contest for a prize of $1,400. However, a student from New York was the winner. This is the same contest in which Joe Dalto of Boardman won in the local district.

The winners from the various states were given a tour of Washington, D.C., and visited in the offices and talked with the senators and congressmen from their home states.

A banquet was given for the winners and representatives. An estimated 2,500 people attended. The banquet which was sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the women's auxiliary.

In the interest of Morrow County, Commissioner McCoy visited the National Association of Counties. He was vitally interested, he said, in the subject of revenue sharing.

STUDENT WORKSHOP—A workshop of junior and senior high school students was to be held Monday, March 10, at the Assembly of God Church in Irrigon concerning teen problems.

It was headed by Carolyn Holt and organized by the Morrow County Juvenile Advisory Board and the Children's Services Division.

Some of the subjects considered were "Drug Awareness" with a State Police trooper leading the discussion; a film on "Coping with Parents"; alcohol abuse; teen-age pregnancy; sexuality; and cults, which was to be led by the Methodist minister from Heppner, the Rev. Mike Sheridan.

GOING TO DENVER—Bruce Buchanan, formerly of Irrigon and a Riverside High School graduate, has been transferred to a Science Research Center in Denver, Colo. by the Marathon Oil Co.

Buchanan has been employed by Marathon Oil Co. on Trading Bay in Alaska since 1976 after his graduation from Oregon State University. He worked in the laboratory of the oil processing company.

Marathon Oil is also providing a home for Buchanan and his wife in Denver. Bruce Buchanan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Buchanan of Irrigon.

New school opens doors in Boardman

Sam Boardman Elementary School opened its doors Tuesday to approximately 320 students, according to school superintendent Matt Doherty.

Teachers and volunteer workers moved desks, blackboards and other equipment to the new school from the overcrowded rooms at A.C. Houghton Elementary School in Irrigon. New equipment that was being stored at A.C. Houghton also had to be taken out of boxes and set up at Sam Boardman Elementary.

Doherty said the school is done except for five rooms in the building that are 80 percent completed. Those five rooms probably won't be used this year or next year but will be finished when an overload of students exists and the rooms are needed, Doherty said.

Families can raise 50 pheasant chicks—keep half, rest go free

Area families interested in raising pheasant chicks to turn loose into the wilds at 10 weeks may contact Glen Ward, area biologist for the Department Fish & Wildlife.

He said families may have up to 50 chicks. They may keep half of the chicks but must turn the remainder loose at the age of 10 weeks. Pheasant eggs also may be obtained for hatching, with the chicks to be raised.

Ward said the pheasant stock and eggs will come from the state hatchery at Corvallis, where 20,000 pheasants are grown yearly.

He said 2,000 chicks have been allocated for this part of eastern Oregon.

After the pheasants are turned loose, he explained, they mate with and supplement the existing wild stock.

This year, both roosters and hens will be provided persons interested in raising them. Previously, only hens were given. The birds will be delivered in Heppner by the middle of May.

"To raise pheasant chicks gives kids a responsibility," Ward commented.
