

Pianist shows flawless technique; vocalist applauded

By Justine Weatherford
Last Sunday afternoon, May 18, after Jojean Stevens finished presenting three groups of piano selections with flawless technique and fine feeling, the audience gave her a standing ovation. Guest vocalist Jim Ackley also was vigorously applauded after each of his songs.

The recital arranged by Ola Mae Groshens, Heppner piano teacher, brought a standing-room-only crowd to the basement of the United Methodist Church. As she greeted the audience and introduced the program, Mrs. Groshens said how pleased she felt that "so many came this lovely sunny afternoon to enjoy some lovely music."

Pianist Jojean is also a piano teacher for several young students who attended the program. She performed her nine selections of varying lengths, types and moods from memory, which indicates that this nearly 18-year-old piano artist seems completely in control of herself and her instrument.

The vocal numbers presented by tenor Ackley were "The Times of Your Life" and the very popular "You Light Up My Life." He accompanied himself on the piano.

At the conclusion of Jojean's longer, difficult, final number, Rubinstein's "Kamennoi-Ostrov" and the enthusiastic ovation, Mrs. Groshens spoke about her pleasure in having Jojean as a student and presented her with a nosegay and two gift pins.

She declared that the first small gold pin, a replica of the dome of the U.S. Capitol, was in honor of Jojean's fine citizenship and willing and graceful participation in many community affairs through the years. The second gold pin featured musical notes and was presented in recognition of Jojean's competency, dependability and discipline as a piano student.

The three-page annotated programs prepared by teacher Groshens gave interesting facts about the selected compositions and their composers, making the recital a very educational experience. Lela Breidenbach, a Heppner High School senior classmate of Jojean, gave out the programs and ushered guests.

Members of the Stevens family were assisted by Mrs. Groshens's Soroptimist friends in serving refreshments to the guests.

Baccalaureate celebrated in Irrigon

By Frances Rose Wilson

Baccalaureate for the graduating class of Riverside High School was held at the Assembly of God in Irrigon. Pastor Allen Gordanier preached the baccalaureate sermon. Bibles were presented as a gift to each student from the combined churches of Boardman and Irrigon.

Commencement exercises will be Friday May 23, at 8 p.m. at the Riverside school for the class of 59 students. Although this is the largest class to graduate from the school, it is the smallest class in the school. The first graduating class, after the consolidation of the Boardman and Irrigon high schools was 17, which shows the growth of the area, since 1960.

Activities at A.C. Houghton school for next week include a track meet Wednesday, May 28. Dress-up Day for children and faculty on Thursday, a half day of school Friday, May 30—Schools out.

Women's Aglow sets meeting

Women's Aglow will have a meeting May 27 with dinner at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting following at 7:30 at the Episcopal Church Hall. Cost for dinner is $2 a person.

More information may be obtained by calling Kay Chinen at 676-5127 or 676-9128.

Honored at OSU

Among the 148 freshman students at Oregon State University at Corvallis who have been honored for scholastic achievements in the spring term is Scott W. McEwen, of 422 Riverside Drive, Heppner.

Hospital Notes

Jewel Hampton of Heppner and Gladys Drake of Ione are the only two patients at Pioneer Memorial Hospital in Heppner admitted within the past week ending May 19 that were still in the hospital Monday afternoon. Patients who have been dismissed within the week were Jeremy Wheeler, Carolyn Cole, Sally Guglielmelli and Norma Frommiller, all of Heppner; George Krueger of Lexington; and James Steele of California.
