Alpha Theta plans projects

At a special June meeting of Alpha Theta E.S.A., current summer projects were discussed.

Bebe Munkers announced that the Cystic Fibrosis Bike Ride held in May was very successful; $1,652.15 was turned into the cystic fibrosis headquarters. She was informed that so far for 1980 this was the third highest amount sent in to the C.F. Foundation for the State of Oregon. The three people winning the bonds for the most money turned in were Todd Miller, Curtis Lynch, and Billie Joe Harbik.

Other philanthropic monies spent this year have been $81 for flowers for the nursing home and $36 worth of used books and magazines donated to library. The next project will be a frost-a-cape booth at the sidewalk sale, with the proceeds going to the Easter Seal and treatment center at Eugene.

Plans were discussed concerning a float to be entered in the coming Morrow County Rodeo Parade and a booth to be at the fair.

It was decided that the annual calendar would be in charge of the annual calendar sales. The money made on the sale of calendars is all used for philanthropic projects.

AROUND ABOUT

With Justice Weatherford

Madge Coppock Thomson, who was the business teacher at the high school during the early 1930's, has carefully preserved quite a few Hehischs. She hunted up her old school student body picture and her book of clippings now, because the five classes of 1935 through 1939 are reuniting here this weekend. Madge's picture and clippings, along with other mementoes will be displayed at the Elks Club.

(For some years it was customary to print the Heppner High newspaper. "The Hehisch" in the Gazette Times. More recently the paper has been a separate publication.

The following excerpts should interest you. Various mastheads declare that Alice Bleakman, Anabel Turner, Edmond Gonty, Miriam Moyer and Armin Wihlon served as editors, while Ralph Breedon, Anabel Turner, Edmond Gonty, Miriam Moyer and Alice Bleakman were listed as having been assistant editors; reporters included Jim Farley, Harold Ayers, Donald Drake, Rachel Anglin, Reese Burkenbine, Farris Prock, Marcel Jones, Alice Bleakman, John Glavey, Claire Phelan, Beth Wright, Lora Gilman, Marie Scribner, Florence Moyer, Anson Rugg, Mary Driscoll, Esther Adams, Roy Gentry, Kathleen Cunningham, Billy Thomson, Ralph Breedon, Anabel Turner, Armin Wihlon, Edmond Gonty, Marvin Morgan and Frank Anderson. These excerpts are from 1932 and 1933 papers which do not all still have the date of the issue.

From the January 1, 1933 issue: The play "Seventeen" will be given by the junior class. Admission will be 25 cents for adults, 5 cents for children at the matinee and 15 cents for children in the evenings. Come hear Frank Anderson and Anson Rugg serenade the girls with a beautiful, heart-breaking ballad. See Claire Phelan sputtering at the baby talk heard on his front porch and Armin Wihlon in a Negro role. You can get the inside dope on school love affairs if you see this play. Others in the cast include: Harold Ayers, Billy Thomson, Francis Nickerson, Matt Kenny, Anabel Turner, Lora Gilman, Mariam Moyer, Rachel Anglin, Florence Moyer and Marie Scribner.

Mr. Lumley predicts many failures in the frosh Algebra class unless some intensive studying is done before the semester exams.

Another issue tells of class elections. Mr. Bloom announces that the election of the presidents is of special significance because they, together with the student body officers, will represent the students in formulating a plan for exemptions which, it is hoped, will be more satisfactory than the present one.

Officers elected in the senior class were: President, Hazel Beyer; vice-president, Ted McMurdo; secretary, Viola Bowman; treasurer, Edmond Gonty; sergeant-at-arms, Wrex Langdon; members of the Hehisch Committee, Herman Green and Kathryn McLaughlin. This is the fifth consecutive semester that Edmond Gonty has been treasurer of his class.

New officers of the junior class are: President, Frank Anderson; vice-president, Alice Bleakman; secretary, Rachel Anglin; treasurer, Armin Wihlon; sergeant-at-arms, Roy Gentry; members of the Hehisch committee, Anson Rugg and Anabel Turner.

The state income tax will be the subject of inter-class debates. From the freshman class, Donald Turner and Dick Benton will debate against sophomores, Joe Green and Ilene Kilkenny. Juniors, Bill Thomson, Francis Nickerson and Armin Wihlon, will meet seniors Winifred Case and Ted McMurdo.

The February 9, 1933, issue tells that at an assembly held for the purpose of initiating new members of the H Club, a howlingly successful program was presented. There were three parts. First was a skit by Don Cowdrey and Claire Phelan enacted for the purpose of showing an athlete's sense of humor, no doubt. The second part was a skit by Reese Burkenbine and Bill Schwarz. The point of the joke was blunt, it's being so old. The last and most convulsive part of the program was a speech on women by Johnny Hanna. First he spoke of twelve of the world's most famous women, including Margaret Nelson. When told by Roy Gentry, president of the H Club, that his speech did not have the right substance, Johnny cast some insinuating remarks about certain members of the football squad and their "femmes."

One April issue tells that Miss H.C. Long, the state librarian from Salem, visited the school and told the assembled students about the state library. It also reveals that Howard Furlong, Margaret Lieuallen, Lorena Wilson, Billy Cochell and Ilene Kilkenny put on an exciting sophomore class skit.

Under Class Notes we learn that the senior English class dramatized different parts in Shakespeare's "MacBeth." Each group in the class chose the part which they wished to dramatize and some dressed in costumes.

An announcement was made by Mr. Lumley concerning the frosh party which is to be given by the sophomores. He explained that to get away from the large crowd of former years no juniors and seniors have been invited. Mr. Lumley suggested that the juniors and seniors should get together and give a party.

Another April issue tells about a very successful H Club smoker where there were a few very fast bouts, the most interesting being: Floyd Jones vs Johnny Hanna; Matt Kenny vs Jimmy Furlong; Don Jones vs Joe Green and Marvin "Sullivan" Morgan vs Gene "Corbett" Florence.

The May 11, 1933, issue tells that there have been many improvements and changes in school since the present building was erected in 1913-14. The old classes had some clubs which we don't have now. In 1918 there were two literary societies and an Industrial Club. They had two school songs and each class had a poem. The debate teams were started in the year 1920-21. The student body handled over a thousand dollars in the year 1921-22.

A March 9, 1933, editorial considers the inauguration of new President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, stating that with his stepping into the presidency a whole nation is wondering how the democratic administration will start a new deal and overcome the great depression.

A fall issue tells that a weiner roast following the football game last Friday was held above Kelley's spring by the senior class. A huge bonfire was made on which weiners and marshmallows were burned or toasted and around which games were played. Five cars accommodated the whole class which was chaperoned by Miss Straughan and Miss Palmiter.

"Fads"—that's the word: the high school has gone to them. The boys are all wearing vests without their coats. Of course, the girls follow suit by wearing skirts supported by brightly colored suspenders.

Several interesting advertisements are included in Madge's scrapbook. One urges everyone to buy Pearl Oil in the new refillable can. This clean-burning, uniform kerosene re-refined by the Standard Oil Company of California can be obtained from the following dealers: M.D. Clark Grocery, Thomson Bros. Grocery, Hiatt & Dix Grocery, MacMarr Grocery, Huston's Grocery (all five in Heppner) or from Elmer Hunt Service Station or W.F. Barnett and Co. Grocery in Lexington or from Bert Mason or Bristow & Johnson, Ione.

Another ad offers a train excursion (Union Pacific) for about one cent a mile over Memorial weekend between points in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Nevada, California, Montana, Wyoming (west of and including Green River) and some points in British Columbia. Minimum adult fare, 50 cents—children, half fare. Tickets good on all trains. In sleeping car add regular sleeping car charges.

In a May 18, 1933, grocery ad, a Heppner store offers: soap—10 bars for 35 cents; cheese, full cream Oregon loaf—18 cents per pound; coffee, three pounds—65 cents; carrots, large bunch, golden crisp—5 cents per bunch; lettuce, large heads—5 cents each; salmon, Libby fancy sockeye, 2 tall tins—35 cents; Best Food salad dressing—35 cents a quart.

Senior Citizens

The gift tour presented by the Soroptimists was very pleasing and interesting to the 28 persons who traveled to Canyon City last week Monday, July 21. They had a fine lunch at the Senior Center in John Day. They found the very unusual Kam Wah Chung Chinese Museum most interesting. The Oliver Historic Museum, the Joaquin Miller cabin and the little Greenhorn Jail were special places visited at Canyon City.

The first place of high interest during the morning's trip south was the attractive blue and white home now occupied by Rita Sumner and family, which was remodeled by Kelwayne Haguwood several years ago. As the bus passed the house and its passengers admired the place, Leita Messenger announced that it is the home in which she lived with her parents just 55 years ago, when, as Leita Barlow, she was being courted by Truman Messenger.

The drive through the wooded mountain area scattered with blooming wildflowers was lovely. The experience bus driver, Jack Gaymon, skillfully avoided Tom Huston's straying pigs. The forenoon rest stop was at Kimberley, where the two Soroptimist chaperones, Lenna Smith and Marion Abrams, and Neighborhood Center Director Pat Brindle provided everyone with a refreshing, cold drink.

Coming north in the afternoon the bus stopped at the Cant Ranch which is the National Park Service Headquarters for the John Day Fossil Beds National Monument. After looking about there, cool drinks were served to all at a table under the trees on the lawn in front of the lovely, big, old ranch house.

At Heppner, Tuesday, August 5—almond turkey over buttered noodles, frozen peas and carrots, pineapple, raisin and cabbage salad, bulgar muffins and jelly, peaches and cookies.

At Ione and Heppner, Wednesday, August 6—orange juice, shipwreck casserole (hamburger, rice and potatoes), buttered frozen corn, Neopolitan vegetable mold, corn bread, rhubarb-strawberry dessert.

On Wednesday, July 23, the Morrow County Advisory Council, interested seniors and friends met at the United Church of Christ in Ione. Doris Gollyhorn, chairman, presided at the meeting which convened at 1:30 p.m. Reports were given by council members who represent the three county mealists. Rollin Reynolds, director of the area Agency on Aging, presented several matters for discussion, assisted by other staff members.

The council decided to arrange its next meeting for Tuesday, September 9, at 10 a.m. at the Lexington Grange Hall. A no-host luncheon will be served there at noon by the grange ladies. That afternoon all seniors from Morrow, Gilliam and Wheeler Counties are urged to attend a special meeting related to the White House Conference on Aging. Details will be announced later.

After Chairman Gollyhorn adjourned the council meeting, council members and guests joined the Ione seniors at dinner.

Morrow County senior meals next week will include: At Irrigon, Monday, August 4—apple juice, spaghetti and meat sauce, buttered peas and carrots, cucumbers tomatoes, zucchini, tossed green salad, canteloupe.

At Heppner, Tuesday, August 5—almond turkey over buttered noodles, frozen peas and carrots, pineapple, raisin and cabbage salad, bulgar muffins and jelly, peaches and cookies.

At Ione and Heppner, Wednesday, August 6—orange juice, shipwreck casserole (hamburger, rice and potatoes), buttered frozen corn, Neopolitan vegetable mold, corn bread, rhubarb-strawberry dessert.

Seniors to have day at State Fair

Senior citizens have a double opportunity to visit the Oregon State Fair this year free or at a reduced rate and to see two of America's top entertainers while viewing exhibits of Oregon's Heritage into the 80's. The 1980 Fair is August 23 to September 1.

"Fairgoers 65 years of age and over may enter the grounds free on Golden Age Day, Tuesday, August 26," according to Dwight Butt, State Fair Director. They may also choose to take advantage to K-2 Day (KATU-TV) Monday, August 26, when the Portland television station will offer reduced admission price of $2 to the Fair with special KATU coupons available from Meier & Frank stores, Bumper to Bumper Auto Supply stores and Taco Bell restaurants. The K-2 coupons will also allow the fairgoer to ride any and all "F untastic" rides for just one price of $5.00.

Entertainment will include the Western and Country music of Johnny Cash, with June Carter and the Tennessee Three on Monday, KATU Day; and the Country music artistry of Barbara Mandrell on Tuesday the 27th, Golden Age Day. "These shows and all stage shows on the fairgrounds are free to everyone on the fairgrounds everyday of the fair," Butt stressed.

Top amateur entertainers from throughout the state will be appearing on the Oregon Showcase stage in Friendship Square, on center stage near the Poultry Building, and on the Oak grove stage at the north end of the fairgrounds.

A favorite of last year's fair, Debbie Lincoln, will return this year on Thursday and Saturday nights.
