

Weddings

Davis-Greenup

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton T. Davis, Jr.

Mary Ann Greenup and Clayton T. Davis, Jr., were married in a 5 p.m. outdoor ceremony, August 29, on the lawn of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Greenup, Heppner, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Judge Donald McElligott officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Greenup, Heppner. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Clayton T. Davis, Sr., Pendleton.

Malcolm Johnston was the guitarist, with solos by Mark Royal.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a princess-style gown of taffeta and organza. The sweetheart neckline and bodice had an overlay of embroidered lace roses and the train was edged with a single row of embroidery. The long sleeves were of taffeta and lace across the shoulders, gave way to organza, which formed a full sleeve. Her three-quarter-length mantilla veil was crowned with organza and embroidered lace, which extended around the edge of the veil, accenting the back. The bridal bouquet was composed of orange roses and baby's breath.

The vows were exchanged beneath an archway of pine boughs and ivy interlaced with yellow daisies and orange glads.

Matron of honor was Jimmy Karr, Echo. Darrell Sallee was best man. Ushers were Greg and Bill Greenup, brothers of the bride.

Truitt Greenup, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. Shelly Ashbeck and Sara Greenup, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

The guest book was attended by Bridgett Greenup and Angela Ashbeck, sister and niece of the bride.

A buffet dinner followed the ceremony. Harry Jones of Long Creek played his guitar and sang following the dinner. After a wedding trip to the Oregon Coast, the couple is at home on the Greenup ranch in Heppner.

A reception and potluck dinner, followed by a barn dance, were held in honor of the couple at the Greenup ranch on Saturday, Sept. 27 at 7 p.m. All friends and relatives were invited to attend.

McLachlan-Burkenbine

Mr. and Mrs. David McLachlan

Connie Lee Burkenbine, Pendleton, and David Lee McLachlan, Heppner, were wed at the Hope Lutheran Church in Heppner on September 6, 1980, in a 1 p.m. ceremony. The Reverend John Maas officiated.

Connie is the daughter of Forrest and Gail Burkenbine and David is the son of Darrel and Delores McLachlan, all of Heppner.

Connie, given in marriage by her parents, wore a white gown, accented with a keyhole neckline and lace which created an apron effect in front. The long-tight-fitting sleeves and finger-tip veil were of matching lace. To complement her ensemble, the bride carried a bouquet of peach-colored roses and baby's breath.

As maid-of-honor, Connie chose her sister, Lisa Burkenbine of Walla Walla, Wash. Bridesmaid was Michelle Huddleston, Vancouver, a friend of the bride.

As best man, David chose his brother, James McLachlan, Hermiston. Groomsman was Rob Eckman, Patterson, Wash., a friend of the groom. Ushers were Jim Lankford, Jr., Heppner, also a friend of the groom, and Allen Burkenbine, Heppner, brother of the bride.

Soloist was Jim Ackley of Heppner. A reception was held following the ceremony at the Heppner Elk's Club.

Following a wedding trip to the Oregon Coast, the couple is at home in Pendleton where the groom will attend Blue Mountain Community College and the bride is employed at KTLX radio station.

David is a 1976 graduate of Heppner High School. Connie is a 1979 graduate of Heppner High School and a 1980 graduate of Modern Business College in Kennewick.

Emma Drake honored on birthday 87

A surprise 87th birthday dinner was held for Mrs. Ray (Emma) Drake Saturday at her home in Heppner.

Attending were her sons, Raymond from Corvallis, and Claude and wife, Doris, Midway, Wash.; her daughter, Claudine, and husband, Paul Warren, Heppner.

Grandchildren Judy Weber and sons Mike, Bill and Joey from Kennewick, Wash.; Charlotte, Holly and Glen Baumgartner, Midway, Wash.; Ken Drake and wife, Jan, Portland; Marahjo and Dan Murphy, Beaverton, Ore., and Doug and Carley Drake, Heppner, were present.

Also present were Mrs. Drake's only sister Vera Given, Silverton, Ore.; and her daughter, Zephne, and husband, Charles Furno, from Vancouver, Wash.

Meet your 4-H leaders-old and new

by Birdine Tullis, Morrow Extension Service

We take pride in our local 4-H leaders...they are the adults and older youth who volunteer their time to provide leadership to the youth of the county. In the past we have saluted the individual leaders by introducing them to you on a weekly basis. We heard many good comments on this method of recognizing the contributions of the leaders. Some leaders will be re-introduced to you; others will be new. Starting this week, we'd like you to...

meet a 4-H leader in her thirty-fourth year of leadership.

She has offered leadership in the clothing project for thirty-four years. The number of members who have benefited from her guidance are too numerous to mention. She has taught children, and even the grandchildren, of her first group of members. She took a little vacation from leadership for a few years, then came back to offer advanced sewing instruction to older girls of the county.

Four-H isn't her only interest; she's a born volunteer. She has often taught classes for Extension and for Blue Mt. Community College. She has a great interest in our local heritage, and is an active supporter of the Historical Society, loves fair, and serves on the Fair Committee. She is an ever available consultant to anyone with a sewing problem. She travels quite a bit, too. A trip yearly to New York provides a welcome break for exploration and excitement.

In her many years of sewing, she has made everything from baby clothes to the most tailored of jackets for men. But who is the first to sign up for a class that offers new techniques? You guessed it. She is a native daughter of Morrow County and one who deserves our thanks and admiration. Meet RUTH McCABE of Ione. She holds the record for 4-H leadership in our county at this time. Now she is ready to start her thirty-fifth year as a 4-H leader.

New 4-H Leader

There should be a surge of interest in knitting and crocheting this year, with the return of the sweater as the most prominent fashion item. Four-H is happy to announce that Joyce Winter, Heppner, an accomplished knitter, and crocheter, will take members for a knitting and/or crochet club. She would like to have meetings on Tuesday afternoons...her day off work at the office. Joyce will take beginners, and has the skills to teach all levels through the most advanced. Contact her at home, at Winter and Sweeney Law office, or call Extension. Or, if there is interest in a chess club, she would be willing to teach that, too. A word to the wise...act quickly. We think she'll get lots of calls.

4-H Week...October 5-11

All 4-H members and clubs are reminded of the Poster Contest for 4-H Week. Clubs have been asked to have members prepare posters telling what they think about 4-H, or follow the theme "Expanding Horizons" and place them in their local store windows. Prizes will be awarded to the three posters chosen as best, and the three will be entered in the state contest later this year. Complete details regarding the poster contest were given in September "Extension Letter."

Morrow's Extension Letter

The communication line between the extension office, 4-H leaders and families, and study group members is available to anyone wishing to receive current news on 4-H, family living, or home economics events and activities in Morrow County, as well as consumer information. If you'd like to receive this local communication each month, call 676-9642, or drop a card to Birdine Tullis, Extension Service, Box 397, Heppner 97836. No charge.

Hunting Season - Game Food Helps

The calendar points to the opening of deer, game bird, and elk season in the very near future. Extension has a number of bulletins that contain useful information for handling the kill, as well as tasty ways to serve it. The bulletins are not new, but the information is just as useful and up-to-date now as when written. Free copies of "Boning Out Your Deer," "Treats With Venison," and "Game Foods" are available to anyone interested. Copies may be obtained at the extension office in Heppner, or at the County Office Building, Irrigon.

Potpourri...A Special Event Coming

Featured special event in October will be "Potpourri," a demonstration, exhibition, of many Christmas ideas, and new-old skills. Local homemakers in Morrow and Umatilla counties will demonstrate a wide variety of things such as off-loom weaving, corn husk dolls, tote bags, table covers, dough art, soft boxes, patchwork and contemporary quilting, containers for homemade goodies, candies and cookies...and more.

The special program, designed to help homemakers fight inflation as well as provide activities for families to share, will be offered Oct. 14 at A.C. Houghton School.

Irrigon, and at Pendleton on Oct. 16. Both will be offered evenings, 6 to 9 p.m. A small charge of 50 cents per person will be charged to cover cost of supplies used, and beverages.

Potpourri was scheduled for October to allow time for the information to be put to use before the holiday rush. Bring a pencil and note pad. As a conservator measure, recipes, instructions, etc., will not be duplicated this year. You take your own notes. A camera might be handy if you wish to photograph an item to help you remember. It's for everyone...make an X on your calendar date of October 14.

Marine Band to perform at EOSC

The United States Marine Band will give two performances at Eastern Oregon State College Tuesday, Oct. 7. The performances, sponsored by the EOSC Student Activities Board, are scheduled for 1:30 and 8 p.m. in the EOSC Quinn Coliseum.

Tickets range from $3 to $4 and are available in La Grande at the EOSC Bookstore or La Grande Stereo and Music, in Pendleton at J.B. Record Co., in Baker at May's or Bohn's and in Enterprise at Wagner's Men's Store. Tickets will also be sold at the door.
