

Sifting through the TIMES

With Justine Weatherford

Fifty Years Ago

The lone Hotel was completely destroyed by fire between 7 and 8 o'clock on Sunday morning. It is believed the fire started from an overheated stove. The hotel has been closed while some repair work was being done. E. H. Stiles had been doing repairs on the building.

A part of the lone Hotel was built many years ago, before the railroad was built into the county. It was used as a store and hotel and later housed the post office when it was moved from Pettysville into lone. From time to time additions were built onto the original building until it was quite a comfortable and commodious hostelry.

The adjoining building, occupied by Frank Engelman's pastime, was damaged by fire and water. The loss, both to Mr. Engelman and to Jack Campbell, owner of the hotel building, is partly covered by insurance.

W. P. Mahoney, president of Oregon Wool Growers Association, departed this morning for Burns, via Canyon City. At Canyon City he expected to attend the meeting of the Grant County Horse and Cattlemen's Association and then on to Burns for the annual wool grower's meeting. Other sheepmen attending from here are Ralph Thompson, Garnet Barratt, W.H. Cleveland, R.A. Thompson, and C.W. Smith, county agent.

Twenty-five Years Ago

The importance of water to the economy of Eastern Oregon was explained by members of the Upper Columbia River Basin Commission Monday at the chamber of commerce meeting. Present were commission members, Paul Rowell, executive secretary; J.W. Forrester, Jr., Pendleton; Judge Garnet Barratt, Heppner; Ray Baum, La Grande; Marion Weatherford, Arlington; Jack Bedford, Heppner chamber president; and Judge Robert Lytle of Vale, the day's principal speaker.

Robert Grabill, manager of Empire Machinery Co. and former Heppner city councilman, was appointed by Mayor Mary Van Stevens to fill the vacancy on the council created by the resignation of Jeff Carter, who left Heppner for Payette, Idaho.

Senator Wayne Morse will be the main speaker at the annual meeting of the Columbia Basin Electric Co-op to be held, Friday, Nov. 18, at the Heppner fair pavilion. Also on the program will be Allen Tom, state representative.

A.C. Camp, president of the North Pacific Grain Growers, Inc., Spokane, will be the main speaker at the annual meeting of the Morrow County Grain Growers to be held Nov. 14 at the lone Grange Hall.

Senator Wayne Morse will speak at an open meeting of the Irrigan grange on Nov. 17. His speech will be on Hell's Canyon.

Five Years Ago

Three hundred residents of Morrow, Wheeler and Gilliam counties attended the 31st annual meeting of Columbia Basin Electric Cooperative in Fossil, Thursday.

"Five years ago I farmed 400 acres and the cost of raising potatoes was $400 per acre; this year I farmed 8,000 acres and the cost has increased to $1,200 per acre," said Dennis Logan, president of Western Empire Builders, Boardman, speaking before the chamber of commerce, Monday, in favor of corporate farming in Morrow County.

A special meeting of the city council was held Monday night where Mayor Sweeney read a letter from the League of Oregon Cities which states that Oregon cities may not receive revenue sharing funds next fiscal year. "Failure of Congress to act this session means that re-enactment cannot occur until after May 15,

1976, because of new congressional budget procedures that will go into effect starting in 1976." Mayor Sweeney speculated that if the revenue sharing funds are cut in half, the city budget will probably have to be submitted to the voters for their approval. If the voters refuse the city's budget, it could result in the loss of some of the city's services.

Marion Abrams, high school librarian, and Pat Wright, county health nurse, were initiated into the Soroptimist International of Heppner, Friday evening in the American Legion Hall. President Evelyn Sweek was assisted by twicypast president Elaine George in the after-dinner ceremony.

Degree of Honor Protective Soc. to host dinner

Members of the Degree of Honor Protective Society are hosting Thanksgiving dinner for members families and invited guests Nov. 22 at 6:30 p.m. in the Degree of Honor Hall.

Entertainment will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Delbert

Piper of Lexington, who will present a slide show.

The main dish will be provided. The rest of the meal will be pot luck.
