

Lexington
from p. 4

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Papingau and Mr. and Mrs. Cutsforth. There will be special music and a Christmas message, with a short business meeting.

A potluck dinner was enjoyed before the meeting with a birthday cake in honor of those with birthdays this month. Present with a birthday was Lyle Peck, and there were several congratulated on the wedding anniversaries. Readings were enjoyed for the lecturers hour. All grangers are reminded that the "grange nees you, and you need the grange," so please try and attend the meetings the third Monday of each month. Members are asked to bring gifts to the next meeting for the residents at the nursing home; gifts are to be wrapped and labeled. The meeting adjourned with the chaplain's drill.

The card party held at the Rebekah Hall in Lexington on Saturday night was well attended with the hosts and hostesses. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buchanan and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Peck, in charge. Those winning prizes were: high - W. M. Tripp from Lone, for women, and, for men, Bob Taylor; low was won by Luella Taylor and Charles Buchanan. Lovely refreshments were served following the party. The next in the series will be the second Saturday in December.

Forestry workshop
Fri., Dec. 5

The Morrow County Extension Service will present a workshop on the financial analysis of forestry investments on Friday, Dec. 5. This session will be held at the Extension Service conference room in Heppner from 1 to 4 p.m. and is free to the public. Topics for discussion include the basis for financial decisions, making an analysis and interpreting the analysis. The class is designed to inform those wishing to invest in a forest resource or learn about forest practice of the theory behind financial analysis, how to perform an analysis for their particular circumstances, and how to interpret the results of the analysis.

Anyone interested in attending this workshop should contact the Extension Service office in Heppner or phone 876-9642 prior to 4 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 4, for further information and registration.

Feed-aid payments
$23 million

Payments to U.S. livestock producers under the U.S. Department of Agriculture's emergency feed aid program totaled $23.4 million during fiscal year 1980.

Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the $23.4 million in federal assistance has helped livestock producers buy 1.25 billion pounds of feed (22.3 million bushels corn equivalent).

During the period Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, USDA approved more than 46,000 applications requesting program aid, Fitzgerald said.

Under the emergency feed program, financial aid to farmers may be authorized when a natural disaster has reduced the amount of feed, normally produced on the applicant's farm, and the applicant must make larger-than-normal purchases of feed.

Participants may be reimbursed up to 50 percent of the cost for feed purchased. The maximum authorized amount of this aid was increased Aug. 11 from two cents to three cents per pound of grain equivalent for the current drought period.
