

4-H 'Know Your State Government' application deadline draws near

A close-up look at state government in action is in store for 4-H members attending the 1981 Oregon 4-H conference in Salem, March 15-17, according to John P. Nordheim, Morrow County Extension agent.

Up to two 4-H members from Morrow County will be chosen to attend the conference built around the theme "Know Your State Government."

Those 4-H members who are sophomores, juniors or seniors in high school are eligible to apply to represent the county at the conference. Cost is $30 per delegate.

Persons interested in attending the conference, which will be held in the Capitol building at the Oregon 4-H Center, must have their application on file at the Extension office in Heppner by Monday, February 16.

The conference is held every two years during the biennial meeting of the Oregon Legislature so young people can see for themselves how state government operates, adds W.L. Anderson, Oregon State University Extension youth specialist and conference coordinator.

Delegates will not only observe the Legislature, but they will meet with such state officials as Gov. Vic Atiyeh, Secretary of State Norma Paulus and Treasurer Clay Myers.

Delegates will arrive Sunday afternoon, March 15, for orientation and get-acquainted activities. In the evening, members of the OSU Collegiate 4-H Club will introduce a new educational game designed to show the "trade-offs" involving the use of river resources.

Monday will be spent at the Capitol and that evening there will be a report from 4-H'ers who attended the 1980 Citizenship Washington, D.C., Focus program which highlights the national government. The conference adjourns after lunch Tuesday.

Additional information about the conference is available at the county Extension office of the OSU Extension Service at Heppner or by calling 676-9642.
