Greg Tilson, OSU Extension specialist, will speak on North county
water—related problems

Greg Tilson, OSU community and rural development extension specialist, will address the annual meeting of the Morrow Soil and Water Conservation District on developing community organizations dealing with local water problems. The Boardman and Irrigon areas have specific water related problems that affect community development. Mr. Tilson will take the approach on how citizens might organize to solve their particular problem and relate how other communities have organized to solve similar situations.

Dean Seegar, Morrow County planner, will be available in the discussion to bring attention to the long-range economic effect to this area and how it can be enhanced by integrated land use planning.

Others available for comment will include a representative from the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality, Farmers Home Administration and Dr. Tibbles, Morrow County Health representative.

Annual meeting will be March 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the A.C. Houghton School in Irrigon.
