Ione Elementary kids inform, entertain parents at open house

By DELLA HEIDEMAN
Plays, poems and readings entertained and informed parents of first through fourth graders at Ione Elementary School Monday afternoon, April 20, during the first annual afternoon open house. Betty Rielmann, of the Ione Grade school, was pleased with the attendance of about forty parents, and numerous younger siblings for the afternoons activities. Lunch was served in the cafeteria for parents and their children, followed by activities in the individual classrooms. First graders put on a series of readings and plays from their readers, while second graders recited poetry, presented a short play, sung a song, and then accompanied their parents to the library for a visit.

Third grade parents were treated to oral readings, math at the board, and short individual and two person plays by the students. The fourth graders shared oral reports of the constellations and social studies games with their folks.

Not to be left out was the afternoon recess, which was followed by a program in the cafeteria which included singing, dancing, and music by the elementary band students. Capping off the afternoon were cookies, punch, and coffee, donated by various mothers, and organized by the teachers and Mrs. Barb Peterson.

All of the students appeared to enjoy having their folks back in the classroom again, and although most seemed to weather the cafeteria and classroom well, the majority appeared to have opted to skip recess.
