Heppner tracksters make influence known

With three weeks of competition behind them, Heppner High School tracksters are beginning to make their influence known as they continue to improve upon their efforts. Three girls' school records have been broken and others have been threatened.

Last week's competition saw the girls finish second to Sherman County in a fourway meet at Heppner; the boys were third, and in an 18-team field at the Sherman County invitational at Moro last Saturday, the Mustangs finished in the middle of the pack.

Margaret Kincaid established a new school record twice during the week in the 300-meter low hurdles breaking the old mark of :56.4 on Tuesday with a :56.1 clocking, and then running :53.0 at Sherman. She missed the record of :18.1 in high hurdles with a mark of :18.2 on Saturday. That mark was good for third place at Sherman.

Kellie Hammond broke her own record in the javelin Tuesday with a throw of 119'8" which was nine inches over the old standard but she did not compete on Saturday. Bonnie Arrington set a personal best also in the javelin with a toss of 90'6".

Susan Johnson bettered her time in the low hurdles by over seven seconds Saturday with a :55.1 clocking. It too, bettered the old school record. She placed fifth in the low hurdles at Sherman.

Greg Sweeney continues to improve in the distance races, winning both the 1,500 and 3,000 meter races on Tuesday, and, in a field of over 30 runners, was the victor at 1,500 meters on Saturday and ran fourth in the longer race. His best for the season is a 4:32.3 in the shorter race.

Mary Kincaid has placed in every meet this year in the highjump. Saturday she tied for fourth place with a 4-8 jump. She has cleared 4-10 for her best this season.

Both Duane Garrett and Wesley Marlatt have shown continued improvement. Garrett has consistently been placing in the pole vault (fourth on Saturday) and Marlatt has been steady in the shot put (sixth on Saturday). Marlatt missed placing in the discus by inches as he improved in that event to 103'6", his first effort over one-hundred feet.

Garrett was the high-point performer on Tuesday with a first in the pole vault, seconds in both distance races and a fourth in the javelin. Sweeney was high point Saturday.

Lisa Wilson won the 3,000 meters at home and was second at 1,500 meters, but her best performance was Saturday with a 13:54.4 clocking at 3,000 meters, good for second place. She has improved some 33 seconds from her first effort of the season.

Kristy Polzen and Vicki Smith have both contributed greatly to the 1,600-relay team which set a school record Tuesday along with Hammond and Mary Kincaid at 4:59. Polzen and Smith have been consistent point collectors in the 400-meter run as well.

John Moyer has shown continued improvements in the sprints and jumps with a best effort in a non-placing 35'5" leap in the triple jump. Mike Nolan has been limited in action with a broken hand

The girls 400-meter relay team turned in their best performance of the season in non-placing effort last Saturday running :56.5. The team was made up of Smith, Kincaid, Johnson and Kincaid and was without two normal members of the team.

Ione runner breaks three hour mark at Boston Marathon

Ione runner Al Beck broke the three-hour mark at the Boston Marathon Monday, however, further information on his performance was not available.

Beck, a 34-year-old seventh grade teacher at Heppner Elementary school, left last Thursday to compete in the world famous 26-mile marathon.

The Boston Marathon is only the fourth run for the 145-lb. Beck, who said he started running only two years ago to lose some of the 165 lbs. he weighed at the time.

Beck was presented with gifts from students and faculty before he left to fly back to Boston with his wife, Karen.
